Nazi Airport Bombed; Raids Reach 20th Day

NAZI SUPPLY SYSTEMS HIT BY AIR FLEETS

Bombers Pick Targets from Invasion Coast to Italy and Bucharest.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, May 4 — American Flying Fortresses, blasting at Hitler's waning air power in the 20th consecutive day of pre-invasion aerial assaults, bombed a German airfield in Holland today.

The new blows by American heavy bombers coincided with medium attacks by both American and British bombers on German anti-invasion installations in northern France.

They fell only a few hours after two great allied armadas of fighting bombers hit targets in Bucharest from bases in Italy and the big military depot of Mailly southeast of Reims from British bases. Possibly 750 RAF bombers made the trip from the British bases.

A preliminary U. S. announcement indicated the Fortress formations which slammed explosives at the airfield somewhere in Holland probably numbered less than 250 planes. It made no mention of fighter escort.

Nevertheless, the combined assault by this streamlined force and the fighter bombers brought a record 6,000 tons the weight of bombs loosed on the continent by something like 1,750 bombers last night and today.

Not a single Marauder or fighter was lost from the morning medium bomber attacks on numerous installations in northern France and U. S. Thunderbolt and RAF Spitfire pilots who escorted them said such vast clouds of smoke and dust arose from the targets they were unable to estimate the damage inflicted.

Ninth air force Mustang fighters, making a sweep over Hanover and Brunswick areas of Germany while the heavy bombers were over Holland, saw only one German plane—which was shot down promptly by Capt. Hank O'Connor of San Francisco. He still boosted O'Connor's total to 16.

Crewmen back from northern France encountered no fighters, but reported heavy flak over the targets.

The RAF heavy bombers met fierce German fighter opposition, the air ministry announced, and 9 planes failed to return from the operations, which included an attack on the often-battered Nazi German chemical center of Ludwigschafen.

Other Points Hit

In addition to Mailly, other French targets hit by the British bombers were aircraft stores and equipment at Montdidier, 23 miles southeast of Amiens, and an ammunition dump at Chateaudun, about 30 miles northwest of Orleans. The air ministry said several enemy aircraft were destroyed by bomber gunners.

The 40 bombers lost last night constituted the largest RAF loss since the record of 96 on the March 30 raid on Nurnberg.

ALLIES REPEL KOHIMA DRIVE

Enemy Redoubles Effort To Capture India Bases Before Monsoons.

By The Associated Press

Furious Japanese attempts to capture the allied base of Kohima in eastern India before the monsoon rains set in have been repulsed but there is no indication of a let-up in fighting all along the Burma-India front.

With the monsoon rains due within two weeks, the Japanese are making a last-gasp assault on allied troops entrenched in Kohima town, 35 miles south of the important Bengal-Assam railroad, and on defenders of Imphal, important Indian border base 60 miles south of Kohima.

Jap Raids Repelled

Allied headquarters said Japanese raids in the vicinity of Kohima were repelled. There was no change reported in the fighting around Imphal, where Tokyo radio claimed 30,000 allied troops have been evacuated.

On the Arakan front in north coastal Burma, counter-attacking allied troops used tanks to repel a Japanese penetration near Buthedaung.

China's forces in Honan province fought desperately against large enemy armies which seek to complete conquest of the Peiping-Hankow railroad. Latest reports indicated the railroad town of Hsuchang is being attacked both from the north and south but remains in Chinese hands.

Hard-hitting bombers carried the brunt of the war offensive in the southwest Pacific reports. The aircraft smashed Rabaul, New Britain, with an 88-ton blow, and pounded targets at Woleai in the western Carolines and at Biak island in the Schouten group west of newly-conquered Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea.

A mix-up on signals apparently caused a brief clash between two P-T boats and two American fighter planes near Rabaul Monday, Gen. Douglas MacArthur said. Both planes were shot down and both boats wrecked. Some casualties resulted.

MARION PILOT IS KILLED IN PACIFIC ACTION

Lt. Lowell Leffler Killed; Was Brother of Former Soldier Previously Stricken.

Lt. Lowell E. F. Leffler, pilot of a B-24 Liberator bomber, has been killed in action, according to official word received by his mother, Mrs. H. G. Leffler of 299 Summit street. The telegram received this morning from the war department stated that Lt. Leffler had been killed in action on April 10 in the South Pacific area. A letter giving details is to follow.

Lt. Leffler was commissioned a second lieutenant in March 1943. He had volunteered the previous year and had been trained in chemical warfare and later applied for foreign service and was sent to Alaska and the Aleutian Islands. He was transferred from the latter place to cadet training.

Held Merit Award

In addition to his wings, he was given a gold star merit award at the time of his graduation, for having completed his course without an accident.

He received his training at Santa Ana, Calif., later going to Ontario, Merced and Palmdale, Calif., and Douglas, Ariz. After receiving his commission he was sent to Topeka, Kas., where he received his ship and was ordered overseas Nov. 1, 1943.

He has been engaged in battles on Marshall and Gilbert islands and was advanced to rank of first lieutenant on March 16. His last letter received recently was dated April 2. In previous letters to the family he spoke of an award he had received but failed to tell what it was.

Former Garage Worker

Prior to entering service Lt. Leffler was employed at the Ben Payton, Inc., garage. He was graduated from Harding High school in 1937.

Surviving are his mother, and two brothers, Charles Leffler at home and Harrison Cale Leffler of Columbus.

A brother, Richard Leffler died last January in Hines hospital in Chicago of injuries suffered while he was in Army training in New York City. He entered the hospital for treatment following an honorable discharge in February of 1943.

Rabies Warning Issued to Marion Dog Owners

A dog belonging to Albert Knickle of 226 Chicago avenue was pronounced rabid after diagnosis at Ohio State university, where it died Tuesday. Three Marion veterinarians had examined the dog and recommended that it be taken to the university. County Dog Warden Elmer Ullom this morning issued a warning to all dog owners to keep their dogs tied and not to let them run loose.

It is not known whether any other cases of rabies have appeared. Mr. Ullom said the dog was brought here about two months ago from Morrow county.

New Draft Plan Mapped By Selective Service Director

System To Be Announced Before Supply of Men 18 to 26 Is Exhausted in 6 Weeks to 3 Months.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 4—Selective service (SS) headquarters today said it is working on a new draft plan to be announced before the nation's draft board have exhausted their supply of men 18 to 26 years old.

That supply, SS explained, is expected to last at least another six weeks and perhaps as much as three months longer. What shape the new plan will take could not be learned.

Until that plan is disclosed, SS said, no man over 26 and engaged in an essential or war-supporting industry or in agriculture is to be drafted anywhere in the United States.

(SS wishes it stressed here that this flat ban on essentially engaged men over 26 is not new).

SS said the only men over 26 the draft boards have any right to take at this time and until further notice from national headquarters are men who volunteer or men doing non-essential work. Bartenders, for instance.

Situation Clarified

If any men over 26 still are confused about their position, perhaps the following may make clear where they stand:

SS notified all state directors April 8 as follows:

"You are to • • • postpone the processing for induction of men 26 and over who are making a contribution to essential agricultural, war production or war-supporting activities, even though such men have been found acceptable for military service or have been ordered to report for induction or pre-military physical examination."

SS says that order still stands.

But suppose a man over 26—and engaged in agriculture, war production or a war-supporting activity—is taken by his draft board between now and the time SS headquarters announces its new plan or gives other instructions about the men over 26. What does he do?

SS says he should protest to the board immediately, pointing out he is engaged in one of the essential or war supporting activities. The boards all have lists of such activities.

Appeal to Director

But suppose the board ignores his protest and insists on inducting him anyway. What then? SS says then he should take his case at once to the state director of selective service.

But there is a paragraph in that order of April 8 which may cause some questioning of all SS has said above. That paragraph reads:

"Postponement of the processing of such (26 or over) should remain in effect until you are satisfied that the processing of men under the age of 26 has been substantially accomplished."

Would that indicate that state directors and not national SS here is to decide when local boards are to start drafting men over 26 again?

SS says no, that the ban remains until lifted nationally by SS in Washington and is not to be lifted on a state-by-state basis according to the decision of individual state directors.

SEE FOOD RULES EASED FURTHER

Restrictions on Milk Products May Be Eased in Few Weeks.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 4 — Further easing of civilian food supplies appeared probable today as the government made all cuts of pork, veal, lamb and mutton, and all other rationed meats except beef steaks and roasts, ration-free.

Present limitations on sales of fluid milk, ice cream, cottage cheese, milk drinks and other dairy products, and of margarine may be loosened somewhat in the next few weeks.

It is a feast-like fare the government has laid out before civilians in recent weeks—a fare that prompted some Republican members of congress to cry "politics." Meats are the third major class of food to be made ration-free recently. The others were frozen fruits and vegetabes and some kinds of canned vegetables, and food fats such as lard, vegetable shortening and oils.

All this may be more or less temporary, however. A spokesman for the war food administration said he hoped the public would not become "overly optimistic" with regard to future supplies. It may be necessary, he said, to tighten up considerably next fall and winter.

The point bonanza was not all it appeared to be at first glance as the red points now must last twice as long as in the past.

The actual effect will vary according to what has been bought with red points under the previous rating. For instance, a person who has used most of his red points for steak and butter will be cut in those items. Those who have been devoting few points to the high point value cuts will find more points available for their usual fare.

Present obvious efforts of the government to encourage greater food consumption reflects largely an inability to move overseas all the supplies which had been allocated to fighting allies. Ships have been busy carrying soldiers and fighting equipment.

Some food earmarked for overseas piled up in storage, and the government had to choose between allowing it to spoil or making it available to civilians.

Greater effort might be made to expand storage facilities except for a feeling of optimism in government food circles that direct war demands may decline before the year ends. The Army has built up at least a nine-month reserve supply for all fighting men overseas.

Strike of Foremen Spreading in Detroit

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, May 4 — A rapidly-spreading foremen's strike took its toll on war production at 11 plants here today as the huge Ford Motor Co. Windsor plant across the Detroit river remained closed for the twelfth day in two weeks. Other strikes in the area persisted despite lack of support from high union officials.

The latest walkout was at the Packard Motor Co., where between 200 and 300 foremen left their jobs last night. Spokesmen for the group predicted all 850 Packard foremen would be affected, which would bring to about 2,750 the number of supervisory employes idle in an attempt to gain recognition for the Foremen's Association of America, an unaffiliated union.

The figure includes an estimated 1,000 foremen at six plants of the Briggs Manufacturing Co., 600 at three Hudson Motor Car Co. plants and 300 at the Murray Corp. of America.

JUNE 14 PROCLAIMED FLAG DAY IN U. S.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 4—President Roosevelt today proclaimed June 14 as Flag day, to be observed "as a day of earnest rededication to those high principles of humanity and civilization which constitute the foundations of the republic."

Mr. Roosevelt said "ours is a flag of battles • • •. It is carrying our message of promise and freedom into all corners of the world.

"Ours is also a flag of peace • • •. It is the flag under which men and women of varied heritage, creed and race may work and live or, if need be, fight and die together as only free men and women can."

The proclamation called on the nation to display the flag June 14 and to arrange where possible for joint displays of emblems of the United Nations.

WARD CO. OFFICIAL ARRESTED BY FBI

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 4 — Paul D. Sowell, assistant operating manager of Montgomery Ward & Co., was seized by federal bureau of investigation agents at the government-controlled mail order plant today and charged with "stealing or injuring" U. S. government property.

William J. Connor, first assistant U. S. attorney, told Commissioner Edwin K. Walker Sowell was seized as he was "taking down" a government poster. Connor said the poster informed employes that any discharges since April 20, the day the government took control of the plant, were invalid and the cases would be heard by John D. Goodloe, government - named grievance officer dealing with the CIO United Mail Order, Warehouse and Retail Employes. The poster also said there would be no further dismissals without hearings before Goodloe.

Sowell was arraigned immediately before U. S. Commissioner Edwin K. Walker and released on $250 bond pending a hearing May 11. He pleaded innocent.

The complaint prepared by Connor accused Sowell of "taking, purloining, stealing or injuring property of the U. S. government."

Sowell's attorney, James C. Lealon, demanded of Walker that Sowell be freed, contending the government had used "high handed procedure" in hustling Sowell to the U. S. attorney's office. Lealon also said he was not permitted to see Sowell immediately and that Sowell "was fingerprinted in the U. S. marshal's office before service of any warrant."

SANCTIONS TO STAY IN FORCE AS WAR ENDS

Concerns Affected Are Those That Aid Axis; Many in Latin America.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 4 — The United States and British governments today cracked down on 15,000 business men and firms blacklisted because of their alleged assistance to the war machines of Germany and Japan.

A state department official announced economic warfare sanctions imposed on those concerns would have to be continued indefinitely into the postwar period, at least until the transition from war to peacetime conditions is well advanced.

This will give an initial competitive advantage to firms which have played ball with the Allies and, in many instances, especially in the European area, suffered for it through axis economic discrimination.

The policy has been formulated and made public at this time, it was learned, with the deliberate purpose of putting more than 3,000 borderline firms in European neutral countries on warning not to yield to increasing pressure to trade with Germany, lest they suffer the same fate.

First Such Action

This is the first time in the current campaign to strangle Germany in an economic blockade that Britain and the United States have gone beyond the neutral governments to strike directly at individuals and organizations contributing commercially to the enemy war effort.

The policy was disclosed by Francis B. Russell, chief of the division of world trade intelligence of the state department, in a speech to the American Drug Manufacturers association today at Hot Springs, Va., an authoritative explanation of his statement in Washington developed its full significance in relation to the pre-invasion economic warfare drive on Germany.

"It has apparently been assumed by some of the firms that have cooperated with the axis," Russell said, "that the proclaimed list (U. S. blacklist) and the British statutory list and the sanctions which are based upon them will terminate with the cessation of hostilities in Europe and that listed firms and individuals will then be restored to normal trade facilities.

"There is no basis for such an assumption.

"It need not be stated that this government does not consider the proclaimed list as an appropriate part of the type of normal peacetime trade policies which it hopes eventually will be established.

Russell said elimination of economic warfare controls could be accomplished more promptly in regions far removed from the fighting zones, such as Latin America, and in countries where axis "spear-head" firms have been destroyed.

Among Firms Affected

Those are the hundreds of firms, great and small, which the axis countries used as instruments of their foreign policy. They include such outfits, Russell said, as I. G. Farben, Ferrostahl, Tubox Mannesmann, Mitsui, Mitsubishi, and Siemens Schuckert.

The British-American policy toward branches of those strictly axis concerns, it was said, is to destroy them.

Firms on the blacklist have had their assets in this country frozen by the treasury; they can not obtain export licenses or other economic facilities; customs officials prevent shipments of goods to them; all their communications are listed, and American firms are kept fully advised of their blacklist status so they will not trade with them.

Those are the restrictions which would be continued after the war, according to the place and circumstances of the firms listed.

There are about 15,000 firms on the American list and the British list roughly duplicates this. Of the total about 10,000 of the firms are in Latin America and the other five thousand in the European area.

PRESIDENT ASKS MONEY FOR UNRRA

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 4 — President Roosevelt today asked congress for $800,000,000—$450,000,000 of it in cash—for American participation in the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration.

The money, first actually requested for this country's share, is designed to cover the period before relief operations begin in liberated areas—the period in which UNRRA will have to purchase supplies and provide various necessary services.

In addition to the cash request, equivalent to one-third of the authorized $1,350,000,000 American pledge, Mr. Roosevelt also asked for authority to transfer $340,000,000 worth of supplies, services and funds available under lend-lease. This would be counted toward the total promised contribution.

"It is estimated," a White House statement said, "that UNRRA will need from the United States in the first field operations in liberated areas this minimum of additional supplies and services."

Mrs. Al Smith Dies in New York

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 4—Mrs. Alfred E. Smith, wife of the former governor of New York state, died early today of virus pneumonia in St. Vincent's hospital.

She had been ill five weeks.

Mrs. Smith, the former Catherine A. Dunn of the Bronx, was in her 60s. She married Smith in 1900 when he was a budding Tammany hall politician.

They lived on the teeming East Side and continued to maintain residence there even after Smith was elected governor. He served four terms.

Although Mrs. Smith's interests were centered primarily in her family, she accompanied her husband on campaign trips, including a tour of the country in 1928 when he was a Democratic candidate for President.

Mrs. Smith was an accomplished housewife. Whether in the modest home on the East Side, or in the spacious executive mansion at Albany, she was familiar with every detail of household management.

A quiet, unostentatious person, Mrs. Smith was deeply religious. She made a holy year pilgrimage to Rome with a daughter in 1925 and was received by Pope Pius XI. In 1937 she and the ex-governor were received in private audience by the Pope.

In addition to her husband, now president of the Empire State Building, Mrs. Smith is survived by five children: Alfred E. Smith, Jr., an Army captain stationed in Illinois; Arthur W. Smith of Rye, N. Y.; Walter J. Smith of New York, Mrs. John A. Warner of New York and Mrs. Francis J. Quillinan of Rye.

A solemn mass of requiem will be sung in St. Patrick's Cathedral at 10 a. m. (ewt) Monday. Archbishop Francis J. Spellman will be the celebrant. Burial will be in the family plot in Calvary cemetery, Queens.

The family announced burial would be private.

Too Much Business, Too Little Help Closes Werley Hotel, Railroad Haven for 40 Years

By JOHN BRYANS

Sunday night saw the closing of one of Marion's landmarks as far as railroad men in the area are concerned. The Werley hotel, "flying over" stop for railroad men obliged to spend a night in transportation between runs, has been forced to cease business operations in the face of the present help shortage. The closing Sunday ended an uninterrupted seven-day and night schedule which had been maintained for 40 years. The hotel has been in the Werley family since Frank Werley, a restaurant operator in the business district, decided to try his hand at the hotel business and moved to a location across the street from the present building on Hoyle street north of the railroad tracks. The hotel building has been razed. The hotel was moved to the present site 38 years ago.

Mr. Werley's son, Carl Werley, took over the combined restaurant and hotel business for a number of years. At the time it was closed the hotel was under the management of Carl's mother, Mrs. Rose Werley, and his sister, Miss May Korte.

Peak Business

When asked if a decline in business had anything to do with the decision to cease operations, Mr. Werley said, "No, there's too much business. We just can't get enough help to handle it." According to the owners, the hotel has had one of its peak business periods during the last two years. Other high business years were during 1912 and '13 when the Erie railroad was "double tracking" through Marion and the years of the first World war.

Located on the edge of a veritable sea of railroad tracks, the hostelry shares a place with several other buildings on the little street running west from Kenton avenue. Its drab exterior is a sacrifice to its convenient location near to the source of its business. The management has always catered to railroad and factory men and was located in its present building for their convenience.

The hotel contains 38 rooms, several with two beds and can accommodate 50 people during a rush. Its restaurant has served up many a cup of good hot coffee on a cold winter day.

Future Uncertain

Plans for the future of the hotel are indefinite. Asked if the hotel would re-open should the help shortage cease, Carl Werley said no decision had been reached and he was uncertain as to what the fate of the business would be.

At present railroaders who have been accustomed to stopping at the hostelry will have to find some other place to lay their heads and many will probably wish that their usual stopping place could be reopened. Many a weary railroader will remember the nights he spent there.

A far cry from the depression era when it was hard to make business run from day to day, is the plight of the hotel at present. Perhaps, some day when people are once again available for work in hotels, railroad men approaching Marion will again see the "open for business" sign at the Werley.

STORM FACES G.I. MEASURE

Barrage of Amendments Expected When Bill Reaches House.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 4—The American Legion's "G. I. bill of rights"—an overall veterans benefits measure—today moved into the vortex of a congressional storm.

Rewritten yesterday by the house veterans' committee, the senate-approved measure is expected to be buffeted by a barrage of amendments when it reaches the house floor, probably next week.

Topping the expected amendments are proposals for a "bonus," or adjusted compensation, and for restoration of a senate provision for a maximum of $1,300 in unemployment benefits for veterans unable to find work after their discharge. The house committee cut the maximum to $520.

Chairman Rankin (D-Miss), who fought for restrictions on unemployment payments, said he would seek to have amendments offered freely from the floor. While the committee was unanimous in voting to report the measure after more than two weeks of executive sessions, Rankin emphasized this did not necessarily mean the bill as rewritten by his group would have the committee's full backing on the floor.

Rep. Rogers of Massachusetts, ranking Republican on the committee, predicted the senate unemployment provisions would be restored. They call for payments of from $15 to $25 weekly for a maximum of 52 weeks during the first two years after discharge, the amount being based on the veteran's marital status and the number of dependents. The house committee cut the maximum payment period to 26 weeks and ordered a flat $20 weekly payment, regardless of dependency.

The committe upped from $1,000—the senate figure—to $1,500 the maximum loan to a veteran for the purchase of a home, a farm or a small business, and provided that the loans be made by private state or federal lending agencies, with the veterans' administration guaranteeing payment, instead of being made direct by the veterans' administration.

The house left virtually intact the senate provision for education benefits, but stipulated that to be eligible for them, a veteran must have served a minimum of 90 days instead of the six-month minimum fixed by the senate.

DISTRICT U. B. RALLY SCHEDULED FOR SUNDAY

Youth and Brotherhood Groups to Meet Here.

A joint rally of youth groups and Brotherhood organizations of United Brethren churches of the Marion district will be held at the First U. B. church in Marion Sunday night. Sunday will be observed as Young People's Anniversary day in the denomination.

The rally will open with lunch served by the local church at the Community house at 7:30 fast time. At 8:30 interest group sessions of the Brotherhood and youth groups will be held. Election of officers of the district Brotherhood will be held and B. K. Hill of Marion will lead the session. Rev. Marvin Lewis of Marion will address the youth session. A combined mass meeting will convene at 9 in the church auditorium with Rev. John Searle of Shelby speaking on "Finding God Without a Raft." Special music will be by the Brotherhood chorus of the host church and a special number will be presented by members of the Cardington charge. Representatives will be here from Bucyrus, Cardington, Hepburn, North Robinson, Sycamore, West Mansfield, Mt. Zion-Oceola circuit and rural churches.

National Head Of Boy Scout Cubs To Give Marion Talks

GERALD A. SPEEDY

Gerald A. Speedy, assistant national director of Cubbing of the Boy Scouts of America, will visit Marion next Tuesday and Wednesday to speak to groups interested in the Scout Cub movement.

Mr. Speedy has been associated with the Scout movement as a Scout and Scout leader since 1922. He served the Minneapolis, Minn., area council in several capacities. He has also been actively engaged in the Cubbing program since its inception in 1930, at which time he served as Cubmaster of an experimental Pack.

Cubs are boys nine to 11 years old who have not yet reached the age when they may be taken into the Boy Scouts. Packs are formed in neighborhoods and are under the supervision of mothers and fathers of boys. Packs are divided into dens, each of which has its den mother supervisor.

Mr. Speedy also served for seven years as director of boys work at Pillsbury settlement house in Minneapolis where Cubbing and Scouting were made an integral part of the program. He majored in social work at the University of Minnesota.

In 1935, following his completion of the National Training School for Scout executives, he became field executive and Cubbing director of the Minneapolis area council, where he served until he was appointed to his present position in 1940.

Commissioners, Cubmasters, assistant Cubmasters and Cub committeemen will attend a meeting at 7:30 Tuesday night at the Boy Scout office on East Church street which will be in the form of a Cubbing round table. Pack problems will be discussed with Mr. Speedy adding his suggestions.

A dinner in Mr. Speedy's honor will be held Wednesday noon at Hotel Harding. Members of the Cub organization committee, Cub chairmen and organization committees from Marion county will attend. At 2 p. m. Wednesday another meeting will be held at the Boy Scout office of especial interest to den mothers of the Harding area. Suggestions on how to operate dens and packs will be offered at this meeting.

Flood in Dust Storm

Stewart Is Decorated for Brunswick Raid

By The Associated Press

A U. S. LIBERATOR BASE, ENGLAND, May 4—Major James Stewart has been awarded the distinguished flying cross for his leadership in the American raid Feb. 20 on Nazi aircraft factories at Brunswick, Germany.

The former Hollywood film star piloted the first bomber over the target. It was announced yesterday during the presentation ceremony in an empty hangar.

Pinpointing the decoration, Stewart drawled:

"I guess I'd best send it home. I'm mighty proud of it."

Stewart, who only a month ago was promoted from squadron commander to operations officer of a Liberator bomber group, already held the air medal and oak leaf cluster for other exploits.

Electrician Accused of Turning Back Meters

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 4—A 53-year-old electrician who, Consolidated Edison Company officials charged, earned from $10,000 to $15,000 a year by turning back electric meters for New York and Westchester county "clients" was under arrest today.

Detective Lieutenant Vincent Hastings said Isidore V. Wolfsohn of Yonkers, N. Y., a meter-reader with the firm 25 years ago, admitted taking a third of his "clients'" savings for reducing their electric light bills 99 per cent.

Company investigators said they have been trailing Wolfsohn for 20 years and that persons who have had their meters turned back would "have to make good."

The stingray is related to the sharks.

BROMFIELD BACKS LAUSCHE

MANSFIELD, O., May 4—Louis Bromfield, the Richland county author-farmer-politician, asserted today that Frank J. Lausche's candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination was "the best thing that has happened to the Democratic party in Ohio in 25 years." In a letter sent to party members, newspapers and press associations, Bromfield declared:

"Now comes upon the horizon a man who is an obvious vote-getter with great qualifications of leadership, and what is just as important to the party as a whole, a man of independence and honor. Every Democrat whether organization official, office-holder, or simply registered voter, should welcome Mr. Lausche's candidacy as a godsend."

The People who have used Clean are its Best Advertisers

We've been asked: "WITH SUCH A SUPERIOR PRODUCT, WHY DON'T YOU RUN BIGGER ADS AND TELL MORE PEOPLE ABOUT Clean?" Our answer is: "IF WE MAKE Clean GOOD ENOUGH, PEOPLE WILL TELL EACH OTHER."

That's exactly what has happened. We've doubled our sales in two years with a modest advertising budget. One user finds out how good Clean is — how easy to use — and tells a dozen others. But we do spend a lot of time and money continually improving our product.

Pimples Disappeared Over Night

Yes, it is true, there is a safe, harmless, medicated liquid called Kleerex that dries up pimples over night. Those who followed simple directions and applied Kleerex upon retiring were amazingly surprised when they found their pimples had disappeared. These users enthusiastically praise Kleerex and claim they are no longer embarrassed and are now happy with their clear complexions. Don't take our word for it, use Kleerex tonight. If one application does not satisfy, you get your money back.

Dora Eileen Kirkwood of Carey has been promoted from second to first lieutenant in the Army Nurse corps, according to an Associated Press report from the war department today.

OPA Swamped By Tire Applications

Motorists holding "B" and "C" rations made eligible for new tires by a recent Washington order, and "A" book holders made eligible for grade III or used tires, are swamping local ration boards for certificates, Harold T. Welch, district mileage rationing officer at Columbus announced today. "Many of these motorists are going to be disappointed," Mr. Welch said, "because the local boards do not have sufficient quota to grant certificates for new tires, or exchange grade III for grade I certificates."

"The increased allotments of new passenger car tires by the office of rubber director will make it possible to take care of the minimum needs of the most essential occupational drivers," Mr. Welch said.

"Local boards have been instructed to continue to carefully screen all applications so that those applicants who are most important to the success of the war and to the health and safety of our country are taken care of first."

Interpreting the Smith-Connally Act

THE upshot of the Montgomery Ward & Co. case is destined to be an interpretation of the Smith-Connally act, adopted last June over President Roosevelt's veto. The legal implications will be more important in the long run than the incident of the mail order company's Chicago properties.

Atty. Gen. Biddle reveals in his presentation of the government's case in Chicago federal court that the President's seizure order was motivated in large part by desire to halt the threatened spread of a labor controversy; the nature of the company's business was not the sole consideration. This is an admission that the act has been interpreted liberally; its original application was to bona fide war plants only.

The Smith-Connally act was passed to give the chief executive and the war labor board clear statutory authority for their policy of preventing work stoppages in vital war industries. The purpose was to make clearly legal under certain circumstances action which Mr. Roosevelt had taken in previous cases under his discretions and vague authority as commander-in-chief. The question in the Montgomery Ward case is whether the circumstances were proper. It is important to note in this connection that Atty. Gen. Biddle argued in court on Monday that "there is nothing in the war labor disputes act to prevent the President from taking such action"—not that the act made action mandatory. This is the nub of the case—whether the government's interpretation of the Smith-Connally act, passed as a congressional reaction to the defiance of John L. Lewis, has gone beyond congressional intent. It is a pointed commentary on the act, itself, that when it was being debated in the senate the point was made that its language might be interpreted to give congressional sanction to property seizures far beyond the limits intended, and that is exactly what has happened. Having been equipped with statutory authority it did not want in the first place, the Roosevelt administration has used it in a way calculated to demonstrate that the law is wide open to abuse.

Bought Off

SPAIN'S so-called neutrality in World war II belongs to the highest bidder. The United States and Great Britain are in a position to bid against Germany in a kind of continuous bargain based on Spanish needs. Apparently, their position recently has improved; they now can offer enough to add to Germany's growing disadvantage in its Spanish policy. They have oil to spare, and Germany doesn't. They have food, clothing and control of the seas. In every respect but two, they seem to have gained the edge.

Those two respects make a mockery of neutrality in Spain. The first is the presence on the Spanish border of France of German military force. The second is the Spanish government's moral alliance with the Axis. Spain is neutral only in the sense that it is not clearly a belligerent, and even so it sent troops to the Russian front, now withdrawn as part of its bargain for supplies from Russia's allies. Spain's mercenary policy is not new—it has had other practitioners—but none more clearly in the market to be bought off by the highest bidder.

Drowning Man's Straw

NOTHING is easier to understand than the cheering over a senate subcommittee's proposal to scrap wage stabilization and give white collar and fixed income workers a pay boost. These citizens are having a struggle to keep their heads above water.

But there is nothing to cheer about in a proposal to scrap wage stabilization. The senate subcommittee estimates there are 20,000,000 Americans in the white collar and fixed income brackets. Beyond them are millions more on war wages—all waiting for a chance to get more wages.

The circumstances of runaway inflation already exist—a scarcity of many kinds of consumer goods, a surplus of buying power and the tendency of prices to keep rising to bridge the distance between low supply and high demand. The circumstances would be aggravated and multiplied by a general overthrow of the principle of wage stabilization.

Politicians, nevertheless, will continue to hold out that hope, for what it may be worth. They will throw straws to the drowning white collar and fixed income workers by the bushel, if that's what they think they want.

News Behind the News

MacArthur Lures Japs to Wewak, Then Hits Weakened Posts at Hollandia, Aitape.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 4 — General MacArthur fooled the Japs completely before moving into Hollandia and Aitape.

They observed our ships streaming up the New Guinea coast from Lae and Saidmau, and naturally concluded we were to hit Wewak, their point nearest to us. By every trick possible, MacArthur encouraged that impression.

The Japs hastily assembling most of their force around Hollandia (probably two divisions) rushed them to Wewak, whereupon MacArthur by-passed them, proceeded along the coast and took Hollandia without much resistance.

The weakened Jap garrison there had no inclination for a last ditch, death-loving fight. Frankly, they fled to the hills.

Starvation Fighting

The bulk of the Jap force lured into Wewak will face the kind of starvation-depletion fighting that has come to characterize the whole South Pacific war strategy, even the island-hopping part of it.

That mode of warfare works like chess. You push fingers swiftly out toward objectives in the rear of the Jap frontal positions, either dot-atolls or mainland bases.

The Japs still hold islands within sight of long conquered Guadalcanal, for instance, and several Marshall islands eastward of our advanced positions on Eniwetok and Kwajalein. So the Japs are always in the rear of our lines, and we of theirs.

But we have the air and sea power, and this we use to starve the by-passed Japs. The Jap-held Marshall islands of Jaluit, Mili, Wotje, etc., as well as the ones off Guadalcanal, are swept almost daily by our air bombing.

No surface ships can easily get in to bring them supplies. They have no planes at these points generally, and the only safe avenue of supplies for them is by submarine. Not much ammunition or food can be brought in that way.

Building U. S. Bases

Our advanced bases thereafter are strengthened with plane runways and suitable ship facilities for the next by-passing jump.

Already our new holdings at Hollandia and in the Marshalls and on New Britain give us an air sweep (but not air control) over a vast arc reaching the southernmost Philippine islands, all the Carolines (including Truk) and even the base of the Marianas (Yap, Saipan) which are the last island outposts to be hopped south of the Japanese mainland.

No place in this area can be used as a Jap Pearl Harbor, not even Truk, which we have already bombed 32 times, and thus have reduced to a secondary outpost. Most of the important Jap Holdings are airfields, not naval bases (three at Truk, for instance).

Perhaps this explains why the Japs so seldom these days exhibit a desire for death in the last ditch of futile resistance.

Nazi Forces

No general movement of Nazi troops from the east to the western front to meet us has yet been observed. True enough, the battle-line is only about half as long as last year, and the enormous Russian claims on captured men and material is nearly everywhere conceded to be of little benefit as military information, although they may be good propaganda.

But both the numbers and equipment of Russian troops on the fighting front have been constantly increasing. It would be imprudent for the Germans to withdraw any large number of divisions and switch the emphasis of their fighting effort primarily against us.

As a matter of fact, their recent reinforcements in Italy, the Balkans, and along the northwest coast seem to have come entirely from reserves held in Germany, Czechoslovakia, Austria, and Poland. Some Swedish reports say 15 divisions were used in policing occupied Russia, suggesting these are now available against us. That is no doubt what the Nazis want us to believe.

Costly Retreat

It is too much to say—as some noted military authorities are—that the German retreat was a strategic maneuver designed to reinforce the western front. The retreat has cost the Germans rather heavily in a few places where their encircled troops have not escaped.

They evacuated most of their men from the Crimea, but had to leave some behind. They also escaped from Tiraspol where several divisions had been surrounded. But at Odessa, and at least two points in the Dnepr bend, they lost some divisions—no one knows how many.

The Russians unquestionable are preparing for a new drive and the true situation is one of doubt that the Nazis have sufficient force to attack them in advance of the blow to offset its weight.

Battle WITH the Atlantic

"ALL WIND AND NO SAIL"—that's what blows in the officers' mess three times a day during meals and Howell Dodd, AP Features artist, catches the atmosphere of tension that underlies the outwardly easy atmosphere of the "saloon" of a Liberty ship during a north Atlantic storm.

Capt. Ralph Ludy of Braintree, Mass., hoists himself from the table in the corner to peer out the forward port.

Third Mate Joe Stanich, from Cleveland, Ohio, reaches for the bread. He is hurrying so he can relieve the "Second," now on watch.

Glen Caldwell, chief mate, cigaret in mouth, waits for his food A former commercial fisherman from the Grand Banks, the "Chief" is the closest to the old-line sailing men on board. When the "blasted landlubbers and farmers" have completed a voyage with the "Chief" they're seamen.

Across from him, finishing his coffee, is W. R. Green, of White Plains, N. Y., the ship's security officer whose job is to see that Army supplies and equipment carried as cargo in the S.S. "X" are loaded and unloaded properly.

The dark haired young man in the Navy jacket and sweater is Ens. Gene L. Nesbitt, of Bluffton, Ind., in charge of the 26 young sailors who furnish the ship's armed guard.

Relaxing at the rear is "Sparks," Ralph Whelan, the wireless officer. Raised in Philadelphia, his one passion in life is beer—any kind.

Hardest working man aboard ship was "Mess"—Roy Richardson, a roly-poly Louisianan who was growing a beard and managed to serve food sometimes off the arm at a 45-degree angle.

Proposal Made That U. S. Navy Dominate Pacific, Army the Atlantic After the War.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE hearings before the house committee on postwar military policy have shown that the war department proposes a unification of the armed forces to which the navy department is opposed. May it not be that this conflict of views exists because the issue has not been correctly defined?

We have been assuming that there are two main choices: That the one is to have a single department of all American armed forces everywhere; that the other is to have two departments—navy and war—and possibly a third for the air, each for its particular service everywhere.

The question which I venture to ask is whether the strategic position of the United States in the two oceans may not call for two rather differently constituted military establishments—the one facing the Pacific and the other facing the Atlantic. Our experience in this war suggests that this may be what we really need.

It is significant that in the Pacific the navy department is paramount, whereas, in the Atlantic it is the war department.

To be sure the army ground and air forces are operating in the Pacific, but in the general strategic conception of the Pacific war the leadership is with the navy. Gen. MacArthur can advance into the central Japanese positions only as the navy opens the way for him. His army and his air force are in effect an enlargement of the navy's own army, the marine corps.

Leadership in Atlantic

In the Atlantic theater, be it in western Europe, in Africa, or the Caribbean and off South America, naval ships play an important, but auxiliary part. The leadership and the strategical planning are in the army ground and air forces.

There is, in short, radical difference between the two theaters: the Pacific is an immense ocean in which all operations are dependent upon sea power; the Atlantic is a large lake that can be made se[illegible] by reinforcing the ground and air forces of our allies around the shores of the lake.

It is not an accident but a product of the nature of things that the predominant figures in the Japanese war are Admirals King and Nimitz, that in the German war they are Gens. Marshall, Eisenhower and Arnold.

All are agreed that in any theater of operations unification of command and even fusion of the forces is desirable. But are we right in assuming that the unification and fusion should be the same in all theaters? May it not be that our fundamental interests call for one kind of unification and fusion in the Pacific and a different kind in the Atlantic?

The actual development of our armed forces supports this idea. The navy, relying upon the historic fact that the Atlantic had so long been safe in the strong and friendly hands of Great Britain, has always made the Pacific its great concern.

Navy in Pacific

To conduct war in the Pacific the navy has become much more than a navy; it has in fact become a combined force of all arms under unified naval command. The "Navy" is already not only a navy but a larger army than our whole peacetime army, an air force, a great construction and transport service.

There are some very expensive and contentious duplications as a result. But ought we not to ask ourselves whether the right course is not to preserve and perfect the unification and fusion which the navy has actually brought about, and in the postwar period to treat the navy's present organization as the nucleus of one military establishment for the Pacific?

If that is correct, then it would seem to follow that the present organization of the war department might become the nucleus of one military establishment of all arms in the Atlantic.

It may seem startling at first to suggest that our best policy is to have two large self-contained military establishments facing in opposite directions. But the fact that they do face in opposite directions may be a very good reason for treating them separately.

Review of Policy

Ever since the construction of the Panama Canal it has been an axiom of our policy that our forces in the two oceans should be interchangeable. We need to examine this axiom.

To a considerable extent military units and their equipment may be interchangeable. But what are not interchangeable are the strategical problems, many fundamental tactics, and much of the staff planning and the specialized training. Moreover, the Panama Canal is far from being an adequate connection for great forces moving from one ocean to another, and it would be imprudent to become too highly dependent upon it.

So we ought to explore the advisability of having separate establishments for the two oceans. It is scarcely necessary to say that though they were self-contained, above them both there could and should still be the joint chiefs of staff, and many joint services of research, procurement and supply. But it may well be that since the problems on our two oceanic frontiers are so radically dissimilar, we are most likely to get efficient and progressive military leadership by organizing separate establishments.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Friday, May 4, 1934.

Marion Boy Scouts made preparations to canvass Marion homes the following day in a book-giving campaign to replenish the shelves of the city library.

George Whysall, Marion Water Co. manager, continued his annual practice of opening the straw hat season ahead of time, but downtown observers credited him with second place, Francis Huber having appeared in summer headgear two weeks earlier.

Mrs. Laura Mitchell, and Miss Bertha Major of Blaine avenue returned from a visit of nine weeks in Florida.

Richard Wissler, 81, of Patton street, widely known in music circles and former Huber Mfg. Co. employe for 50 years, died at the home of his son, Charles Wissler of North State street.

The Y's Men's Service club held an informal dance at the Marion Country club with Marion Hinklin and Edwin Probst in charge of arrangements.

The Happy Twelve club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Omar Eaton on Uncapher avenue.

Gaylord Irvin McCrery, 14, Thomas A. Edison Junior High student, died at his home on Sharp street.

Dallas John Messenger, 58, of East Farming street died at Marion City hospital.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, May 4, 1924.

The town of Orrville, O., was divided into two camps as the result of a controversy over a "no hitching post" ordinance passed by city council. The ordinance had been passed following complaints of automobile owners who said the farmers "got up too dogoned early in the morning and took all the parking spaces in the square." The farmers threatened to boycott the town.

In services held at the Prospect Street M. E. church, Marguerite Alexander, Lenore Bondley, Bertha Rish, Vance Harden, John Huneke, William Mahler, William Schott, Paul Trefz and Joseph Wanner took their first communion and were confirmed.

In the morning services at the First Presbyterian church, approximately $35,000 was pledged in the opening of a campaign to raise $90,000 for addition and repairs on the church.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Private Purkey on Withdrawal of General MacArthur

DEAR ED — I see my pal General MacArthur has took his helmet out of the ring. He will not run for presidency and I could of told you so. The General is the kind of a man who sees straight, thinks straight and acts straight and he would be awful handicapped in a race with a lot of politicians. Also he goes for a objective direct and could not get used to beating around no bushes like you have to do if you want to get a presidential nomination.

* * *

It makes me feel a lot better to have the General's word for it on account of no GI would feel easy if their generals was directing battles mornings and running for office afternoons. A general could get all mixed up. It would ruin a GI's morale to have any of them posing for campaign pictures between fights.

* * *

Also I would not want to hear no general getting all balled up and beginning a military order with "My fellow citizens, friends and voters" or maybe signing a communique with words like "and if elected I promise to put four tires on every car and chicken in every chicken sandwich."

* * *

I see where MacArthur come right out and said he would not accept no nomination the day he got back from that fighting at Hollandaise and I guess that was on account of when he sees boys fighting and dying out there in New Guinea a little thing like running in a political campaign seems pretty unimportant.

I would not be serprised if it even made a general pretty sick to take a few minutes out of a war and discover anybody is talking politics anywhere.

* * *

I got a idea MacArthur has something in mind that is bigger to him than even capturing the White House. It is recapturing them Philserpines. It is a great thing to be made President of the U. S. A., but I guess the thrill of marching back into Bataan and Corrigidore will be greater, and that is what MacArthur wants most. The day he does that he will be bigger than any president.

* * *

I liked the General's words. He said he don't covet no presidency and he would not accept it. That is good. When a general covets something he is apt to get it or else. So nobody can now make no covet charge against him. And he says he would not accept a nomination if he got it. That is plain American language.

* * *

As for me personally I will still take the nomination if I get it, and I got another plank that should get me plenty votes. If elected I promise to abolish radio jingles, especially to music.

As ever,
OSCAR

Elmer Twitchell looked at that picture of the mail order house chief being tossed out and remarked, "Well, I see the government has two more carriers."

* * *

The photo, by the way, of Mr. Avery being tossed bodily from his office, may be the presidential campaign picture of all time. We hear a rumor that the Republicans were already planning to plaster the billboards of America with huge reproductions of the businessman going out feet first and captioned it, "On Say Can You See!"

Our idea of a fellow with no sense of humor is the one who asks, "Do you think we'll have inflation," and pays 75 cents, the prevailing price for a haircut.

The senate committee has sidetracked the matter of General Patton's promotion because of his speech saying "England, the U. S. and Russia would rule the world." Every time the general opens his mouth he puts his spurs into it.

Maybe the attorney general wants to be called Yankee Biddle Dandy.

Transition

By Truman Twill

Then there comes the day when Trembleleaf takes a gander out the window of a sunshiny morning and announces he is through wearing an overcoat until next winter. "See," he says, "it has come at last. Warm weather."

And he looks contemptuously at his battered benny hanging there on the hook, grabs his hat and charges out the front door, bound for the big outdoors and as full of enthusiasm as a colt is full of grass.

And he skitters down the street, whistling like an express closing in on a country crossing, taking deep breaths of air and pretending not to notice that he is leaving a cloud of steam in his wake.

"Ah spring," he chatters, holding his upper plate in place with the tip of his tongue and letting the law of gravity take care of the lower. And he tries a few bars of the Spring Song before switching to the Skater's Waltz.

He snuggles down in his oversized collar and snuggles up in his threadbare serge. He pinches himself to make sure he didn't forget to put on his underwear in his haste to be up and at 'em. Yup, it's there—somewhere.

He pulls down his hat and pulls up his socks. Passing school children giggle as they skip by on their way to school as though they never had seen goose pimples three-quarters of an inch high before.

And it is no surprise when a complete stranger wheels up to the curb and calls, "Climb in, pal, before you collapse—I was looking at you tooling along—tough luck about you losing your overcoat—where shall I let you off?"

And he wonders all day how to get home without adding pneumonia to the sniffles that set in just before lunch and the influenza signs that showed themselves right afterward—until finally he gives way to panic and puts in an emergency call to rush his overcoat to him by fair means or foul. A-card or no card.

And he resolved never, never to go without his overcoat again until there is an official announcement that the hottest day of the season has occurred, and then he will carry it over his arm just in case.

And he keeps the resolution till one day he looks for the coat on the hook and it isn't there. "Sure," she says, "I hid it. You can come out of the cocoon now, butterfly, and spread your wings. Remember, you've got to save something to wear when it turns cold again. Go ahead, sissy, be brave. If anything happens there's always your insurance." And then he knows it's summer.

America and capitalism are synonymous, and the individual key to accomplishment in this land. Both must be preserved, for freedom of enterprise is not a goal but merely a means of improving the American way of life.—Eric A. Johnston, president United States Chamber of Commerce.

More Than 300 at Annual Fine Arts Day Programs

THE fourteenth annual community fine arts festival, sponsored by the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs was held years the festival, which has come to be a looked-forward-to event in the city's program of civic affairs, climaxed the 1943-44 season of the federation, and was attended by more than 300 clubwomen, club patronesses and guests. This year's program was one of the most colorful as well as entertaining to be presented since the festival was inaugurated as a communitywide civic event, and displays, exhibits and attendance again testified to widespread interest.

Guest speakers were Madame Skjerne of Oberlin college and Philip Adams of Columbus, director of the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, and for the musical part of the program the out-of-town guests were Helen Stoker, lyric soprano, and Paul Strause, pianist, both of Columbus.

Pan-American Theme

For the social part of the festival a Pan-American theme was carried out in the form of a fiesta. The presidential suite was transformed into a colorful setting with pottery, handicraft and the bright costumes of the hostesses. Huge woven hats, baskets and other handicraft decorated the walls and tables and an outdoor setting fashioned of pottery and palms was an original and unusual decorative note. At the door in the afternoon were Miss Esther Guthery in an all-white South American costume, and Mrs. R. J. Bushong, in a black and red costume, and in the evening Mrs. George E. Planck and Mrs. William Kimball, also in costume, invited the guests to the fiesta. Refreshments were served at small tables arranged for four, laid with red, green and other gaily-colored cloths, and centered with figures, vases, and pottery suggestive of the fiesta theme. The guests were served by members of the various clubs costumed as senoritas and in the peasant dress of the South American countries. Music included selections on the marimba by Miss Laveda Ellison, and Avonelle and Maxine Brelsford of Kenton, sang a group of numbers.

The program was held in the ballroom where Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer, president of the federation, extended a welcome to the afternoon audience and presented Mrs. C. G. Smith, fine arts chairman and general chairman for the festival. Mrs. Harold K. Mouser, program chairman, presided for the program which opened with two piano numbers, "Brazilian Dance," Milland and Chausson's arrangement of the "Blue Danube Waltz" by Johann Strauss played by Mrs. Harry T. Williams and Mrs. O. D. Anderson. Completing the musical part of the afternoon program were three numbers by Mrs. DeJon Morral Hassell of Morral, who sang "The Hills of Gruzia," Mednikoff, "When the Birds Fly North Again," Kries and "Love in Springtime," Arditi. Her accompaniments were played by Mrs. Harold K. Mouser.

Madame Skjerne took her audience on a trip through Europe, giving personal experiences of her visit to her native land, Denmark, and other countries in Europe, with her husband and daughter on her husband's sabbatical leave from Oberlin college. Birthday celebrations, visits to the opera and thumbnail sketches of their many friends gave interesting and intimate pictures of life in the European countries and her audience was left in no doubt as to what Madame Skjerne's feelings were towards Hitler and his regime.

During the afternoon Mrs. T. H. Sutherland announced the winners in the literature, scrapbook and flower arrangement contests. The flowers, judged for individuality, containers, color harmony, proportions and balance, and their freshness were awarded as follows: miniatures, first, Sesame club, second Clionian club and third, Round Table; small or medium, first, Clionian club, second, Art club, third, Round Table; large exhibits, first, Round Table; second, Altrurian, and third, Fortnightly Study club; dish garden, first, Three Arts, second, Sesame. Honorable mention went to the El Dorado, Delphian and Le Mercure clubs. Judges for the flower exhibits were Mrs. Charles Oborn, Mrs. Francis Huber and Mrs. David Coble. Mrs. James Ralston was in charge of the flower exhibit.

In the scrapbook contest, judged by Earl N. Hale, first honors went to the Searchlight club, second Athenaeum club and third, Altrurian club, and honorable mention to the Three Arts club.

Poetry Honors

Honors in the poetry contest were as follows: first, Dorothy Jean Horn of the Ail Arts club of Prospect, a group of poems, including "The Maple;" second, Mrs. S. L. Leeka of the Research club for her entry, "Will-o-the-Wisp," and third, Mrs. Loy Rhoads of the El Dorado club for "Father Filled the Water Trough." Honorable mention was given Mrs. Bess Blake Saunders' entry for the Ben Hur club, "Aurora Borealis."

In the short story contest first honors were awarded Monna Bracy, a junior at Harding High school for her entry, "Always." Mrs. Bess Blake Saunders received second honors for her contribution, "Mystery in the Rose Garden." Mrs. Sutherland read the prize winning poem and the short story. The latter was entered by the Clionian club. Mrs. Paul Alexander of Toledo, chairman of literature and drama in the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs, judged the poetry and short story entries.

During the afternoon and early evening the visitors had ample time to view the exhibits arranged on the mezzanine floor and in adjoining rooms. The walls were hung with paintings of local artists, art work by pupils of the public schools, and tables held the flower exhibits, scrapbooks, needlework, handicraft and other art work. Of particular interest was the display of articles brought or sent home by men and women of the armed forces now serving in foreign countries. One room was devoted to the display of quilts, afghans and shawls, and in another room was a varied and most interesting display of fans, old jewelry, laces, many of which were more than 100 years old. The school exhibit was in charge of Miss Josephine Morris, instructor of art in the junior and senior high school and Miss Edith Keeler, grade school supervisor of art. An honor ribbon was presented to Eugene Burnap, who is making his home here for the present, for his three busts of noted American generals done in American walnut.

Capacity Crowd

An audience which filled the ballroom to overflowing heard the evening program featuring Philip Adams, director of the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, and musical numbers presented by Paul Strause, pianist and Helen Stoker, soprano, both of Columbus. Mr. Strause who is not a newcomer to Marion audiences, delighted his listeners with the following numbers: "Nocturne" Opus 33 No. 2, Chopin; "Valse Oubliee" Liszt and "Chant Polonaise" No. 2, Chopin-Liszt. He returned to the piano to play an encore "Grande Valse Brilliante" Chopin.

For her first group, Miss Stoker sang "The Little Shepherd's Song", Watts; "Charity," Hageman; "Slumber Song," Gretchaninoff and "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark," Bishop. As an encore she sang "Spendthrift," Charles. Her second group consisted of "British Children's Prayer", Wolfe; "Fog", Manning and "Welcome Sweet Wind" from Cadman's "The Morning of the Year."

Mr. Adams spoke on the subject "Society and the Craftsman." He pointed out to his listeners the influence that is being felt by the old world of art and crafts from the once little known islands which have been brought closer to us by the war. The danger of civilized trade and economics to this primitive art was also brought out by the speaker. His talk was geared to interest those in the audience who have an innate appreciation of art but a meager supply of technical knowledge on the subject.

Following the evening program, refreshments were again served in the Fiesta room. The gay dresses of the Latin American hostesses and the attractively set tables provided a pleasant close to the day's activities.

Chairmen

Chairmen of arrangements were Mrs. J. C. Ackerman, Miss Christine Rieck, Mrs. Homer Waddell, Mrs. C. J. Altmaier, Mrs. T. H. Sutherland, Mrs. James Ralston, Miss Edith Keeler, Miss Josephine Morris, and assisting were Mrs. Don Sloan, Mrs. David Coble, Mrs. Don Hamilton, Mrs. George Howser, Mrs. Albert Mauk, Mrs. Gaius L. Rush, Mrs. Richard Jennings, Mrs. Paul Glassmeyer, Mrs. William K. Hamor, Mrs. A. A. Stein, Mrs. Grover C. Snyder, Mrs. Carl Danner, Mrs. Clarence Weber, Mrs. Katherine Dennig Smith, Mrs. J. W. Jolley, Mrs. Lowell Cook, Mrs. John Morgan, Mrs. George Smith, Miss Amy Turner, Mrs. Bessie Blake Saunders, Mrs. Gladys Arter, Mrs. Frank Harrold and Mrs. Richard Morgan. Serving on the reception committee in the afternoon were Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer, Mrs. Clarence Weber, Mrs. Merle Hamilton and Mrs. Paul Knouse, and in the evening Miss Esther Guthery, Mrs. A. E. Mauk, Mrs. W. N. Harder and Miss Ruth Turner.

Assisting Mrs. Smith on the general committee were Miss Ann Mereness, Mrs. H. K. Mouser, Mrs. James Ralston, Mrs. T. H. Sutherland, Miss Mabel Wagenhoy, Mrs. O. D. Anderson, Mrs. W. N. Harder and Miss Edna Dutton.

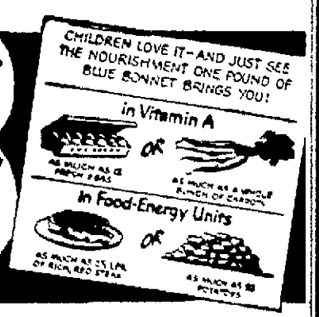
THE MARGARINE WOMEN HAVE DREAMED OF HAS AT LAST COME TRUE!

"It's Fleischmann's BLUE BONNET" and Blue Bonnet Sue



SO DELICIOUS, SO FRESH, SO SWEET, WE DARE SUGGEST THE HARDEST TEST OF ALL —THE "HOT-FOOD TASTE TEST"!

● "Yes, folks!" says Blue Bonnet Sue. "When a margarine is hot and melting, your taste will tell you instantly how good it is.

"That's why I'd like you to try my new Blue Bonnet Margarine on hot food. Then I know you'll agree it's got that real, honest-to-goodness table-spread flavor!

"You see, when we make Blue Bonnet Margarine, we use rich, nutritious vegetable oils . . . fresh pasteurized skim milk. No wonder it's so chock-full of fresh, sweet, delicious flavor!

"And as for nutrition, imagine! Each pound brings you 3,300 food-energy units, plus 9,000 units of Vitamin A! Yet, you pay about one-half the cost of the most expensive spread . . . need only 2 ration points, not 12. Get some today!"

1 MAKE THIS HARDEST TEST of all! Put a big, generous chunk on crisp, piping-hot toast! Let it melt . . .

2 THEN, TASTE IT! Even hot, even melted—it's still sweet, rich, delicious! You'll agree . . .

3 FOR SWEET TASTE—you just can't beat Blue Bonnet. It really tastes like choicest table-spread!

Flashbacks from Early Films Shown To Mark 50th Anniversary of Movies

...rs ago an awed pro- ... men and women ...-pants and bowlers, ...d taffeta, passed ...converted shoe store ... near 27th street in ... City and were thrilled ...st public exhibition ...ictures.

...me, the moving pic- ... seen through a slot ...ne equivalent to the ...ion in present day ...

...motion picture theaters, ...others throughout the ... marking the anniver- ...ing flashbacks from ... the past including ... some of the earliest ...

... the golden anni- versary, a display of stills from pictures filmed early in the century and scenes showing how pictures were then made has been placed in the lobby of the Palace theater by manager George Planck where they will remain during the week of May 7-13.

Some of the stills from early films will bring back memories to many. Such famous scenes as Mary Pickford modeling a creation in "The New York Hat," directed in 1912 by D. W. Griffith. Others show James O'Neill as Edmund Dantes in "Count of Monte Cristo" filmed in 1913; Mae Marsh in the courtroom scene from D. W. Griffith's "Intolerance" filmed in 1916. Many will remember Pearl White in the "The Perils of Pauline" when it won unprecedented popularity in 1914. A transformation in screen history resulted from the shooting of "The Birth of a Nation." Henry B. Walthall and Wally Reid shared the lead.

In 1923 the fantastic features of Lon Chaney as "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" was shown and Douglas Fairbanks was cast in 1921 in "The Nut." His acrobatic antics in this film literally catapulted him to fame.

"The Big Parade" in 1925

Rene Adoree and John Gilbert were starred in "The Big Parade" in 1925. Mack Sennett bathing beauties were used as the "pin-up" girls of the day. Another revolution in the industry came when the first talkie film, "The Jazz Singer" starring Al Jolson was shown. Although only the parts were in dialogue, for the old silent films were doomed.

The animated cartoon came in for its popularity as far back as 1909 when "Gertie the Dinosaur" was brought to the screen from a creation by Winsor McCay.

When Edison brought his Kinetoscope machines to the public in 1894 it would have been hard to realize by looking at the group of spectators who filed past, stopping at each machine to drop in a quarter and turn a crank, that 50 years later, a modernized version of motion pictures would be shown all over the world. Movies play an important part in bringing accurate war news to the film screen and also by helping to build up the morale of men and women in service as well as those at home.

MARION MAN MISSING SINCE EARLY YESTERDAY

Carroll D. Carey, 72, Being Sought by Relatives.

Carroll D. Carey, 72, of 659 North Main street has been missing from his home since 10:30 yesterday morning, Mrs. Margaret Russell, his daughter, reported this morning. Mr. Carey wandered away from his home in late February and was found suffering from exposure in a corn shock near Claridon.

He is known to his friends as "Dick" and has not gone by any other name recently. Mr. Carey is 72 years old, slightly over five feet tall, has dark eyes. At the time he was last seen he was wearing a dark cap, brown sweater, dark coat and gray trousers. He has a crippled left hand from which two fingers are missing.

Mrs. Russell, with whom he makes his home, last saw him in the back yard at her home. She left the window for several minutes and when she returned he had disappeared. Neighbors noticed him when he turned his dog loose. The dog had been his constant companion but lately Mr. Carey seemed to have grown tired of him. The dog returned home when Mrs. Russell went into the back yard to investigate. Mr. Carey was last seen walking in Lincoln park.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Mr. Carey has been asked to phone Mrs. Russell at 8572 or the sheriff' soffice at 6162.

ABOUT ANYTHING

In and Around Marion

Navy Story

One of the favorite stories of the Marion boys at Great Lakes has been passed on to their civilian friends at home. It seems that one after-noon during the first days of boot training, a note to the mother-to-be from a sailor-husband came on a furlough. When queried by friends who lived in the hope of foreign mail, she answered that no letter, but instead he had come on a train—the last one.

Gardening Gadget

The handiest gadget in gardening that we have seen in a long time is a contraption that looks something like a lawn mower and works on the same principle only instead of cutting grass it cuts up the ground, eliminating the back-breaking operation of hoeing and raking. They are rather scarce now-a-days so perhaps most gardeners will have to wait until after the war to get them out. As for us, we're lucky—our neighbor has one.

Genial Grover

The Marion Baseball team should be a dandy if it's success can be based on the respect and friendly feeling that everyone shows for Manager Grover Hartley.

Mayor's Brief Case

The other morning we met up with Mayor Dowler taking a gander at the burning remnants of Marion City club. His usually-present brief case was absent and when queried about the results if it should ever fail and become unzipped, he chuckled and replied, "Why if that ever happened, all my brains would be scattered on the sidewalk."

Orchid Outdone

Orchids are supposed to be the last word in umph for a flower-gift, but when a little Marion tot came racing in the door with a bright yellow dandelion, the first seen, and handed it to mother with a beaming smile—orchids didn't seem so much because that dandelion was worth its weight in gold.

Patrolman's Nickname

If you want to see a grin spread across Patrolman Fred Norton's face, ask him how he acquired the nickname of "Bun".

Tinkles of the Past

For all who wish to be carried back to the old sentiment days, here is a suggestion. Walk into a downtown drugstore, close your eyes to the modern merchandise and listen to the quaint tinkle of old fashioned musical powder boxes. Women are enthusiastic about them naturally but you should see the breakfasting males succumb to their charm. The 8 o'clock crowd shows signs of being really romantic.

Jeep Dream

Our janitor had two jeeps stored in the back room and didn't know what to do with them. Crazy? Well anything can happen in dreams. Seems the other night he dreamed that the editor had ordered two jeeps and there they were parked in a rear room of the building. He felt so helpless about the whole thing that the next day he confided the incident to the editor, who told us.

Fetching Attire

One of the smartest looking costumes of the spring was seen downtown recently. A dark blue cape with padded shoulders over a print dress with a bright red border was topped with a dark blue felt off-the-face hat. Blue silk gloves and a matching purse casually hanging on the right arm completed the fetching costume. The model was a charming brown-haired, blue-eyed miss—about four years old.

Self-Made Test

Did you ever take an I. Q.? If you consider yourself more or less normal, try standing before some of the displays in downtown stores and try to place each of the articles shown. Naturally it won't work if you pick clothes, we know what they are for, too, but try it with a window showing a variety of articles and see just how much you know about them.

Red and Black Boots

Here is a personal touch on the subject of firemen's boots. We confirmed the information recently that the boots may be worn on either foot because they are neither right nor left. Now it seems that one of the firemen at Central station has one red and one black boot. At the time when he needed a pair, they were unobtainable. One day he saw a pair of samples displayed and asked permission to get the samples—because he really needed rubber boots. Permission was granted and he purchased the two-tone pair and carefully camaflouged the red one with a shiny black paint. All was well until they answered an alarm one night in the pouring rain. Result—the black paint came off and he again had an odd colored pair of boots. Now his fellow workers swear the only way to find him at night when they have a call is to track down the mis-mated boots.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

lived nine years in England, and the original Nuney was a cat the Adams cool bought at a village fair for sixpence.

Commuters call Southport the "Connecticut Wall street," because so many financial men live there. By chance, Mr. Adams was one of these, up to 1912. After he left Wall street he acted as a confidential assistant to Col House abroad, and later transferred to military intelligence, where his assignment was Russia. Probably because I knew nothing about Russia," he adds.

He wanted to write, and after the war he settled on the east end of Long Island and began "The Founding of New England." Several curious things grew out of that venture.

"People thought that I must belong to the Massachusetts Adamses," he explains, "and apparently some still do. My people came from Virginia, and I was born in Brooklyn—but I did write about the Massachusetts tribe, of course.

"And I was an innocent, so far as publishing went. I supposed I'd have to pay to get my stuff printed." Before he learned the game, Mr. Adams wrote a 100,000-word history for $1,000 flat. He has done nothing so generous since.

But he is as delighted with books as a boy with a new shinny stick. His house is jammed with books. He works hard, but he enjoys it. He enjoys being one of the few American writers whose product pleases both the general public and the scholarly contingent.

A 1½ Mill Levy

... a period of two years ... will be submitted to the voters of Pleasant Township school district Tuesday, May ... This levy will provide an approximate sum of $15,000 for the construction of a vocational unit consisting of a shop, canning area, and class rooms. The present quarters have been condemned for such use. This new levy would be an increase of approximately ½ of a mill as the present levy on the school bonds expires this year. A property with an assessed valuation of $10,000 would pay an increased tax of $7.50 above the present tax assessment. Be sure to vote Tuesday, May 9.

customers is never-ending during daylight hours. The shops are always filled with waiting customers.

One estimate I read the daily number of tattoo victims here at 300 to 500, who pay an average of $3. For small, simple designs the price may be as low as 50 cents. But it costs $20 to $25 to have a U.S. elaborate leg or chest job.

65 Per Cent in the Navy

Most of the patrons are servicemen and migratory workers, whose fancy for 'skin engraving' ranges from such sentimental designs as the one Miller "carved" into the arm of the young sailor to shapely women—clothed only enough to pass the Navy's ban on "nudes."

A recent survey showed that 65 per cent of the customers were non-commissioned Navy personnel, 25 per cent enlisted men in the Army, and the rest war workers.

About 80 per cent are in their late teens or early 20's. Racially, they are about 90 per cent Caucasian, five per cent Filipino, three per cent Oriental and two per cent Negro.

Their reasons for submitting to the tattoo needle vary. Among Navy personnel, the evidence of a tattoo seems to convey that the wearer is "salty" or a seagoing veteran. Many savors prefer simple designs such as the letters "USN" that ash the center of an anchor. This is supposed to represent apparent devotion to their branch of the service.

Souvenirs of Hawaii

Others said they wanted the skin markings for identification purposes, or as souvenirs—such as "Hawaii 1943," or the representation of a burning ship with the words, "Remember Pearl Harbor," across the face. A few want tattoos to show they are "regular guys" and a couple of these in Miller's line said they were there "just to kill time."

Few cities have ordinances regulating the art of tattooing. Honolulu's regulations pertaining to tattoo parlors went into effect in June, 1942, but do not deal with the health aspects. They merely provide that operators may be issued permits if they have no previous police records to affect. It is suggested that prostitution be divorced from the tattoo industry, and vice versa.

Honolulu has found it not so much a problem of mortality as of health, although a recent health department report said there had been relatively few reports of infection due to tattooing.

It is simple enough to acquire a tattoo—if you have the price. But getting rid of one is another matter. The only way a tattoo can be removed is by cutting away the skin and grafting on new skin from another part of the body. Pain and considerable expense are both involved.

Tattooing Is Big Business

Yields Practitioners a Yearly Take of Half a Million Dollars.

By The United Press

HONOLULU — The slender kid in Navy whites made a wry face and shivered slightly as the electrical tattoo machine set up a raspy buzz.

"No worse'n goin' to the dentist," he grinned to a buddy waiting next in line.

The needle in the hands of a shy lad with brown eyes was tracing a multi-colored floral design on the sailor's right forearm. The letters in the center spelled out the legend, "To My Dear Mother."

In front of the small establishment stood 18 other young men—some in Army khaki, the majority in Navy whites. All were waiting patiently to have the young tattoo artist or one of his three assistants ply their skin art on chests, legs or arms—wherever they preferred.

Annual "Take" of $500,000

This particular sidewalk establishment, known as "Miller's Tattooing Emporium," is operated by 15-year-old Eugene Miller, a dark-skinned native of Hawaii who is the "world's greatest and youngest tattoo artist." A large sign above his modest shop says so.

It is one of Honolulu's eight tattooing parlors where 33 operators are making the electrical pain machines buzz a golden flow into their coffers.

Almost overnight, Honolulu has gained the dubious title of the world's tattoo center. Conservative estimates place the annual "take" at more than $500,000, with an average of nearly $60,000 per establishment.

The scene at young Miller's shop was typical. The stream of

Can Working Women Hold Gains Made in Wartime?

FANNIE HURST ELLEN M. DAVIES BESS BLOODWORTH

By ADELAIDE KERR
Associated Press Features Writer

What is the outlook for women after the war?

Will there still be a place for women in industry, when we are no longer in need of bombers and guns?

What is the prospect for business and professional women?

What problems will the homemaker face?

Those questions are agitating a lot of people these days. So I laid them before these experts and got some very interesting answers.

Consider the problem of women in industry first.

Ellen M. Davies, personnel director of the Waterbury, Conn., manufacturing plant of Chase Brass & Copper Co., and consultant to Army Service Forces on the employment of civilian women in Army installations, expects to see thousands of women still working in industry after the war.

"And I don't think these women will supplant men in keeping their jobs, either," she told me when I questioned her on the subject. "We are going to have such a complete revision of our way of life after the war that both men and women will be needed to produce new goods. There will be new kinds of houses, new equipment to run them, and consequently more leisure for women. There will be shorter hours for workers and more people working. In the reconversion job ahead, women will have a place because of the many kinds of jobs they have learned to do in this war."

Now what of the outlook for business and professional women after the war?

"It looks as though women would have great opportunities," said Miss Bess Bloodworth, vice president of Namm's Store, Brooklyn, and a member of the Women's Advisory Committee of the War Manpower Commission. "Thousands of women have taken advantage of the opportunities which this war offered them. Now they are accepted in fields where they rarely worked before. After the war there will be more women chemists, engineers and draughtsmen, more women heading educational problems and running their own businesses. Women should have big opportunities in the fields of nutrition and housing too. There may be the old tendency to replace women with men but let us hope that their efficiency will be recognized in these new fields regardless of sex."

But the story of the outlook for women after the war does not end there. What lies before the millions of home-makers who constitute the greatest women group of all?

"They face a big problem," said the famous novelist, Fannie Hurst, when I asked her opinion on the subject. "After the war, women will have to make a home for a different male universe. Men who have been in service are going to come home with different ideas and ideals. They will be skeptical and embittered. They have seen other civilizations and they are not coming back the same. This will bring a changed point of view into the home.

"So women will have to be on their toes and ready for the change. If they are not, they will be bewildered and 'out of it.' Women can't shut themselves within four walls any more. They must take an active part in the communities in which they live."

16 PLEASANT TWP. SENIORS GRADUATED

Talk Given by Rev. Schellhase; Diplomas Presented.

Sixteen seniors of Pleasant Township High school received diplomas of graduation last night at the twenty-fifth annual commencement exercises at the school.

In the absence of B. O. Skinner, a former state superintendent of public school instruction, who was to give the commencement address, Rev. N. C. Schellhase, pastor of the rural St. Paul and Trinity Lutheran churches, spoke. He used as his subject, "Think on These Things." Special awards were presented to Naomi Mautz, music and scholarship, and to Dorothy Hedges, scholarship. The two tied for first place in scholarship in the class, each having straight A grades for the four years of high school work.

The school orchestra played the processional and special numbers and a soprano solo was presented by Alicia Zachman. The girls of the graduating class wore white caps and gowns and the boys wore blue and each wore an American beauty rose, class flower. The class colors were blue and silver and the motto was "Be a lifter, not a leaner." The class was presented by Merton [illegible] school principal, and presentation of diplomas was made by Paul Augenstein, clerk of the board of education.

The U. S. public health service reports 78 out of 109 patients were relieved from seasickness by taking benzedrine sulfate.

ESTIMATE GERMANS HAVE 319 DIVISIONS

By The Associated Press

LONDON, May 4 — Germany and her satellites on the eve of the western invasion have approximately 319 divisions, of which some 195 still are on the eastern front, military observers estimated today.

The observers said there was no way of telling how many men the divisions represented, since there now was no guide rule on how many men constituted a German division.

At the outset of the war the Germans figured 15,000 to 16,000 men in a division. Some divisions were "mere shadows of their former selves," an informant said, "and a very considerable number understrength."

"Certainly, however," he said "estimates that Germans have only 1,750,000 men on the Russian front must be considerably below the actual figure."

Here is the disposition of German forces in approximate numbers according to the best information available here

France and the low countries —about 50 divisions including several panzer armored divisions under the command of Gen Von Rundstedt

Denmark—five divisions with little, if any, armor

Norway — about 12 divisions with little, if any, armor

The eastern front between the Black sea and the gulf of Finland—about 195 divisions

Finnish front—seven divisions

Italy—about 25 divisions, nineteen south of Rome

Balkans—about 25 divisions

Referring to a Stockholm report published in London papers that 50 divisions had been transferred from the Russian front to the west, the informant said that "this is not the correct picture at all rather it is the impression the Germans are trying to give their own people to excuse reverses in Russia."

WPB ARRANGES AID FOR MECHANICAL REPAIRS

Acts To Make Parts Available to Repair Shops.

So that civilian appliances and equipment can be kept in operation, the war production board has made assistance available to electrical and mechanical repair shops to more readily obtain parts and materials for their operations Edward J. Mulligan, Columbus WPB district manager, said today at Columbus This assistance, in simplified form, has been available for some time but few repairmen have been aware of it, he said.

Since war needs have made it necessary to curtail production of many household items, the assistance offered through WPB's service trades division, office of civilian requirements, will help repairmen meet more adequately the many calls for service made upon them, he said.

Items of civilian equipment that can more readily be kept in operation include refrigerators, washing machines and other electrical appliances, as well as radios, watches and clocks, bicycles, lawnmowers, sewing machines, stoves, automatic heating plants and plumbing.

To buy materials and parts, repairmen may use a simplified form, thus eliminating necessity of filing other applications and waiting for priority ratings to be assigned. Material thus obtained may not only be used for maintenance and repair work, but may also be used to recondition and rebuild a damaged or used item for resale.

More than 200 agricultural camps are to be set up in Ohio this summer for people willing to help farmers during their vacations.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL MUSIC EVENT TONIGHT

Program To Be Given at 8 in Central Jr. High.

Folk tunes of the people and states and songs of American composers will be heard on the "America Sings" music festival given by the pupils of the elementary grades of Marion schools at Central Junior High school tonight at 8. The program will be under the direction of Miss Jane Scott, supervisor of elementary music and the pianist will be Miss Wanda McMahon.

An instrumental prelude by an all-city elementary school orchestra under direction of Homer E. Hoffman, supervisor of instrumental music, will open the program. Following this will be Folk Tunes of the People by the fourth grade chorus, Folk Tune of the States by the fifth grade chorus and Songs of American Composers by the sixth grade chorus.

Admission price for the program will be 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children. Tickets will be on sale at the door.

C. OF C. BULLETIN LISTS MEETINGS

Employers' Conference Scheduled for Tuesday.

Among matters reported in the monthly bulletin of the Marion Chamber of Commerce is the need for increased waste paper salvage and the success of a recent membership drive conducted by the Chamber. Two meetings concerning industry and agriculture will be held next week.

Employers interested in a discussion of workmen's compensation rates, penalties and credits, have been invited to attend a dinner meeting of the Personnel-Safety group of the Chamber of Commerce next Tuesday at Hotel Harding. E. L. Evans, actuary of the Ohio industrial commission, will speak and lead an informal discussion on workmen's compensation rates. Dinner will be served at 6:30.

A meeting of the agriculture committee of the Chamber will be held at the office on North State street Monday at 7:30 p. m.

The Marion bureau of industrial compensation reported a total scrap collection in March of 1,853,858 pounds. Waste paper is still badly needed and members of the bureau have been requested to up their efforts in waste paper disposal.

Frank M. Foster, president, praised efforts of members in a recent membership drive during which 112 new members were enrolled. At least 12 more members are expected to join soon.

The April business summary follows with figures for March, month in parentheses: bank debits $20,717,139.02 ($21,588,924.51); postal receipts $10,420.23 ($20,341.18); building permits $1,725 ($1,945); automobile sales, new cars 2 (2), new trucks, 1 (1), used cars 89 (86); electric meters 10,258 (10,234).

RULES AGAINST CHIEF

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, May 4 — Police Chief Harry S. Sheets of Portsmouth, who voluntarily retired in 1941 under a city ordinance later declared invalid, may not reclaim his office, the Ohio supreme court ruled yesterday. The ordinance was set up to provide pension funds for policemen and firemen at age 65, and Sheets had accepted the retirement pension and had complied with all qualifications to make him a beneficiary under the city law, the court said.

SHIP WORKERS INJURED

By The Associated Press

NAZIS JITTERY. So jittery are the Nazis becoming as the invasion nears that German authorities in occupied countries are taking no chances on civilians, searching them on any occasion. Here is a photo taken from an Axis magazine showing a policeman in Brussels searching a civilian on a blackedout street.

AIR RAIDS

night the allied heavy and medium bombers made a shift from a series of repeated hammerings during the past week against German communications in northern Italy.

The air offensive in Italy was kept going yesterday, however, by medium bombers which hit bridges at a number of points beyond Rome and a rail yard at Ventimiglia on the northwestern coast near the French border.

Light bombers blasted supply dumps north of the Italian battle area and fighter-bombers hit rail and supply installations in central Italy and shipping near the Dalmatian coast. Operations from Italian bases cost the allies three planes, a communique said, while two enemy aircraft were destroyed. A total of 1,250 sorties was flown.

Bucharest Hit

Liberators, Wellingtons and Halifaxes of the Mediterranean allied air force smashed at Bucharest targets. The city was hit for the first time April 4 and several times since, but never before at night. The Romanian capital was one of the targets April 15 when the Mediterranean allied air force launched the mighty offensive that has continued unabated since, either from Britain or Italy or both.

The main body of the RAF attack fleet was concentrated on the Mailly depot, where the Nazis obviously are piling up stores for use in combatting the coming allied invasion from the west.

The German radio, in one of the few instances where it has made claims lower than losses announced by the allies, said 40 British bombers were shot down.

A still and heavy suspense hung over the great operations areas of Russia, Great Britain and Italy where millions of allied troops awaited the fateful hour of concerted offensives against Germany from the east, west and south.

Local German attacks in the south of old Poland were crushed by Soviet troops, Moscow said.

Heavy Fighting Reported

The Romanians reported heavy fighting west of Iasi among the important oil fields of Targu-Frumos. The Russians held their tight and strangling siege on Sevastopol and sent their bombers against Lwow, Sambor, Stanislawow and Romain—the later in Romania. Moscow said 114 German planes were felled yesterday, by far the largest whittling of the luftwaffe during the day.

Patrols and artillery duels were reported on Italian fronts. Indians on the Eighth army front repulsed a small German attack.

Marshal Tito's Yugoslav military mission in London said there was no chance of agreement with King Peter's followers until after the war.

Berlin loudly proclaimed that the hardened parachute and air borne troops which bested the allies at Cassino in Italy had been moved into the "Atlantic Wall." Nazi reconnaissance pilots reported "great concentrations of shipping anchored off the southern coast of England" with allied invasion troops marching in and out of the ships. The Nazis also asserted without confirmation that U-boats had sunk five merchantmen of 30,000 tons and eight destroyers or escorts bound from Russia to England.

LONDON, May 4—The Flying Fortress wing that attacked a German airfield in Holland today returned without loss, while escorting Thunderbolts, Lightnings and Mustangs downed nine enemy aircraft at the most of three fighters, a U. S. headquarters announcement said.

Gen. Van Voorhis Given Legion of Merit Medal

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, May 4—Maj. Gen. Daniel Van Voorhis retired, yesterday received the Legion of Merit medal for outstanding service in the Caribbean area, and following the formal presentation got an extra award—two kisses from Mrs. Van Voorhis, one spontaneous, the other for newspaper photographers.

Two hundred troops stood at attention and some 300 civilians ringed the parade grounds at Fort Hayes to watch Van Voorhis receive the medal from Lt. General George Grunert, commanding general of the eastern defense command.

Van Voorhis twice was in command here at Fort Hayes. Later he organized the Caribbean defense command, under which falls the Panama Canal Zone.

He resides on his farm at Nashport, near Zanesville.

Jap Drive Into India Now a Race with Time

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The Japanese invasion of India across the northeast frontier from Burma has developed into a fierce and dangerous race against time—an effort to capture the big allied base at Imphal and the small neighboring base of Kohima before the monsoon deluge turns the jungle into a steaming morass about a fortnight hence.

It's a tense situation. The Japanese commander has issued an order of the day saying it is vital that these bases be captured—so important that its achievement might end the war.

The commander's pep-talk is a gross exaggeration, for these captures couldn't be decisive. However, it's true that even possession of Imphal would provide the invaders with headquarters in which they could weather the storm—one of the world's worst—and be ready to strike at allied communications between India and China again when the monsoon ceases in the autumn.

Danger In Failure

Should the Nipponese fail, the entire expedition of some 30,000 men would be in danger of death, if not from the allies, then from being marooned in the flooded jungle. It would be an army cut off from its base and all supplies.

New Delhi tells us that the British and Indian forces in the Imphal theater hold sufficient advantage so that they may be able to annihilate the mikado's little men if the latter don't retreat ahead of the onrushing monsoon. In any event, the invaders have failed at least for the time being in the two prime objectives of their offensive, namely:

1. To capture Imphal and use it as a base from which to cut the railway, river and highway communications that run from Bengal through Assam to northeast India and form an integral part of the Chinese life-line.

2. To start a revolution in India by representing that the invasion force was composed largely of Indians marching in the army of freedom, led—so Tokyo has trumpeted—by the Indian firebrand, Subhas Chandra Bose.

Actually, as this column has pointed out more than once, the Japanese operation never was a major threat either militarily or politically to India proper. It certainly was a military threat to the all-important allied communications in the Imphal theater, but that menace is rapidly receding into the monsoon storm clouds.

Daring Gamble

The Japanese invasion was a daring gamble, but it wasn't without reason. The Burmese backdoor to China is a vital part of Nippon's total defense against the allied offensive which is closing in from all directions. It is the direct route between China and India—and India is not only the greatest allied base in the east but it is the arsenal of the orient.

The Nipponese scheme is clear enough. They hoped to render India impotent as arsenal and base by causing a revolution in that country. They hoped to sever the Chino-Indian communications, thereby not only cutting off supplies to the Chinese but isolating the allied troops which are striking into Burma from the north, including our General Stillwell's American and Chinese troops. Stilwell has been making slow but steady progress towards the big Japanese base of Myitkyina, capture of which is the objective of his offensive.

The Japanese figured that if they could achieve all this, it would leave them free to devote most of their attention to the MacArthur-Nimitz drive from the east. Probably it was worth trying.

Izvestia Says Roosevelt Is Logical Candidate

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, May 4—An article in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia pronounced Franklin D. Roosevelt "the most plausible candidate" for the presidency in an analysis today of the United States electoral campaign.

The article, signed by "Observer," said two things—what it called the MacArthur "incident" and Willkie's "failure"—had increased the likelihood of Mr. Roosevelt's reelection.

Based largely on American press comment, the article said the President had not announced his willingness to run but that the Democratic party had named no other candidate and that the majority of delegates already chosen for the convention favor Mr. Roosevelt.

Izvestia said Republican candidates had "avoided expressing their opinions on foreign policy or had made vague statements."

RETURNS TO BUCYRUS

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus welcomed back the first returning veteran of the Ohio National Guard which makes up a part of the 37th Division which is seeing action in the South Pacific when Tech. Sgt. Oscar Conner of the 134th Field Artillery band returned to Bucyrus this week under an enlisted reserve status. Tech. Sgt. Conner, the highest non-com officer of the band, brought word of the Bucyrus boys in the unit and reported that they had come through the two years in the South Pacific with the unusual record of no casualties. Conner will return to his duties on the New York Central railroad here.

BRICKER ONLY MAJOR DEWEY CHALLENGER

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 4—Gov. John Bricker of Ohio apparently is the only major challenger today to a band-wagon drive by supporters of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for the New Yorker's nomination on the first presidential ballot at the Republican national convention.

Although Senator Ball (R-Minn) said he would present the name of Lieut. Comdr. Harold E. Stassen to the convention, practical politicians figured chances of the former Minnesota governor had been dimmed perceptibly by his loss to Dewey in a battle for the South Dakota delegation of 11.

As an example of how one Republican felt who thus far has taken no side in the presidential contest, Senator Brewster of Maine said he thought the victory of the Dewey slate in South Dakota demonstrates that "it's all over—it looks like Dewey on the first ballot."

A Dewey slate won handily in Tuesday's Republican primary there, boosting his total of pledged and claimed delegates to 238 of the 676 thus far chosen. With 530 of the 1,059 total convention votes needed to nominate, a bloc of 369 remains uninstructed and publicly unclaimed among those already named.

It is from these and the 382 yet to be selected that Bricker must draw his strength if he is to prevent a repetition by Dewey of Alf M. Landon's first ballot nomination in 1936.

Bricker's campaign manager, Roy D. Moore, has claimed his candidate will enter the convention with 257 votes.

Don Williamson Elected President of Y's Men's Club

Don Williamson, Marion police prosecutor, was elected president of the Y's Men's Service club when the group met Wednesday night at the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Williamson had been acting president of the club for several months, filling the vacancy created when William Harner, president, was unable to fill his office because his work kept him out of the city.

Other officers are: Arthur Zachman, first vice president, was re-elected; William Isaly, second vice president, succeeding Mr. Williamson; Elmer Compton, secretary; Ed Probst, reelected treasurer by acclamation; Joe Yanmitell, sergeant-at-arms. All the above officers will serve on the club board of directors with three others, Ken Harris, Carl Keller and William Luse.

Technical Sgt. Jack Hedges, guest speaker, related his experiences on the flight from India to China carrying supplies to the Chinese army. The Associated Press recently carried a feature story on his transport group which has been nicknamed the "Dead End Kids."

Marion Hinklin, county treasurer, spoke on the Mar-O-Del golf course and explained that the management hoped to keep the course open for returning service men.

KENTON MAN AMONG SLOW TIME BOOSTERS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 4—Fan mail in support of his proposal to repeal daylight saving time is piling up in the office of Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.), with the midwest especially articulate in asking relief from what he calls "this national handicap."

Typical was a definition of war time as "burning the candle on the wrong end." It came from W. B. Van Horn of Sacramento, Calif.

Ohioans poured in a heavy volume of the protests against the faster time, it was disclosed today with publication in the congressional record of excerpts from the letters. Many of the Ohio letters came from Dayton and Dover.

"You are right about golf players and fishermen wanting war time," wrote John A. Welling of Kenton, O., "because part of a farm I rent contains a golf course, and in evening taxis make as high as a dozen trips out and back, and a good many cars find gas and tires to come out and spend their extra hour."

From Mrs. D. Morrison of Dover., O., came the comment, "we in Ohio don't like it (war time) one bit."

"I am sure the majority of the people of Dayton wish standard time," wrote Lawrence E. Miller of that city.

Joseph W. Fichter of Oxford, O., master of the Ohio State Grange, said the faster time "has been a great handicap to farmers in their food production efforts."

Urging house action on his measure, Rep. Cannon said "an interest so general and so insistent warrants at least an opportunity to consider and vote on the question."

FAMED COMEDIAN WELCOMES OHIOAN. Coast Guardsman John W. Brown of Lakewood, O., is welcomed by Sir Harry Lauder at home in Strathaven, Scotland. Brown's father, James A. Brown of Columbus, O., used to work with Lauder in Scotch coal fields. Lauder gave a performance in Marion about 20 years ago when on his farewell tour of the U. S.

Piqua Plans Rousing Welcome for No. 1 Citizen, Don Gentile, Now on Way Home

By The Associated Press

PIQUA, O., May 4—News that Piqua's favorite citizen and America's ace of aces, Capt. Don S. Gentile, was on his way home from London touched off plans today for the biggest celebration in this city's history and sent a ripple of excitement through the campus of a girl's college.

Gentile's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Gentile, and his sister Edith are waiting to see Don before they make any plans for a celebration, but the town is getting ready to splurge and Western College at Oxford, O., waits for the fighter pilot to make a promised visit.

"We've waited so long," said his mother. "I hope he gets here soon. We'll have a nice time when he gets home."

Edith, who is 19, said "it's wonderful news. Every time the phone rang for days we all ran to get there first because we hoped the call would tell us Don was on his way home. We haven't any plans. We'll wait and see what he wants to do. It's his furlough, not ours."

No Steady Girl

Edith says Don isn't coming home to see any particular girl, because "he's not engaged and never went steady."

"He's had a lot of girl friends," she commented. "He has been writing to two — Marge Dill of Piqua and Betty Levering of Middletown."

Miss Dill is an office clerk and Miss Levering is the student Gentile has promised to visit at Western college.

"He's one of the very nicest boys I know," Miss Levering said. "We used to have lot of fun together back in high school and I hope we'll be able to have lots more when Don gets home."

Miss Levering said things never were dull when Gentile was around, and he had a reputation for reckless driving and flying in Piqua.

"Incidentally, it was my house that he used to fly so low over," she declared.

Don Gentile Day

The city commission said "Don Gentile day" would be celebrated after the son of Italian immigrants returns to his native city.

Gov. Bricker, the state's senators and congressmen, other high officials and Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, top ace of the last World war and a native of Columbus, O., have been invited. Troops and planes will be sent here by the army for a parade.

LONDON, May 4—Capt. Don S. Gentile, top United States ace in the European theater, and his flying mate, Lt. John T. Godfrey, have left their base in Britain enroute home on leave, it was learned today.

For security reasons, their travel schedule was not disclosed. Both will have a month's furlough.

Gentile leads American fliers in this theater with 23 enemy planes downed in combat and seven others destroyed on the ground. Godfrey, who hails from Woonsocket, R. I., is credited with 17 shot down and six on the ground.

Three Killed, Two Hurt as Car Crashes Truck

By The Associated Press

WARREN, O., May 4—Three persons were killed and two others injured seriously when an automobile sideswiped a truck and overturned several times on an overhead bridge approach near Leavittsburg, just east of here, early today.

The dead were identified by the state highway patrol as Doris Logan, Newton Falls, O., and Richard M. Naughton, 18, and his brother, Samuel, 22, both of Warren.

Injured are Private Robert Kilpatrick, Warren, stationed at Lebanon, Tenn., and Kathleen Gibbson, Newton Falls, both unconscious in hospitals here.

Highway patrol officers said the truck, driven by Francis E. Johnson, 31, Niles, O., was thrown through a guard rail and over an embankment. Johnson escaped injury.

Parrot gets Will Dudley's Goat

Will Dudley never liked his wife's pet parrot. Claimed the parrot called him "Stinky"—and ate his pipe tobacco. And the Missus said it served Will right . . . she'd told him not to smoke his pipe indoors.

To make her point, the Missus grabs Will's pipe and throws it out the window. So Will grabs the parrot and throws him out too. Looks like unpleasantness—till in comes the parrot with Will's corn cob in his mouth. (And whistling "Home Sweet Home," Will claims.)

Well, Will and his wife both bust out laughing . . . and made peace over a friendly glass of beer, allowing how it's pretty silly getting mad at one another's differences.

From where I sit, that's a mighty happy ending. If all of us would live and let live in a spirit of tolerance—whether it's tolerance for a parrot or a pipe—we'd be a whole lot happier and better off.

AIR ASSAULT TAKES BIG TOLL

Nazi Repair Crews Unable To Keep Up with Damage to Transportation.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 4—The continuing air assault on the European continent is piling up a cumulative destruction of German transportation facilities beyond the Nazis' ability to make repairs, Secretary of War Stimson reported today.

It also has cut so heavily into German fighter strength and production that most large bomber formations dispatched against the continent in the round-the-clock air offensive have encountered no aerial resistance, Stimson said the Nazis were sending up their pursuit ships mainly against American bomber forces of group size or against crippled and straggling aircraft, relying chiefly on anti-aircraft batteries for defense against large formations.

In April, Army air forces dropped a record bomb load of 43,500 tons on Germany and German-held targets, Stimson reported. The total represented both Britain-based and Mediterranean bomber forces.

As an instance of the damage shown by reconnaissance photographs Stimson cited the marshalling yards at Chalons-Sur-Marne, where virtually every track in the yards was cut, the through line cut in three places, rolling stock damaged and repair shops gutted.

The result of diminished fighter opposition to the bomber formations," he said, has been to increase the damage to enemy facilities "while permitting our bombers to return in many instances with no losses."

He said, however, it could be taken for granted that in very deep penetrations into Germany to attack vital targets, as in last Saturday's mission against Berlin, the Germans still could offer bitter opposition.

Bill To Increase Pensions To Vets of 2 Wars Okayed

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 4—Legislation to increase pensions and service-connected disability payments to veterans of both World wars was approved today by the senate finance committee. The house already has passed the bill.

The pension increase would apply to veterans classified as totally disabled who have received payments for 10 years or have reached the age of 65. Pensions for this group would be $80 a month in place of $40 to $50. Payments for disability arising from service on and after September 16, 1940, would be increased 15 per cent.

Widows and children also would benefit. Childless widows would receive $33 a month. Widows with a single child would get $15 with an additional $5 for each additional child.

One orphaned child would receive $19; two would be paid $27 equally divided. Three would receive $36. Four dollars would be paid for each additional child left without parents.

WHISKY PRODUCTION SOON HELD UNLIKELY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 4—Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the war production board said today there is no prospect for resumption of whisky making for at least "three or four months."

Testifying before the senate's special liquor shortage investigating committee, Nelson told Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) he saw no possibility of a "holiday" from industrial alcohol manufacture "in the immediate future."

"You mean during the next three or four months?" Ferguson asked.

"In the next three or four months, unless there should be a reduction in requirements for industrial alcohol," Nelson replied.

The WPB chief vigorously denied any personal opposition to an alcohol holiday but said he could not permit anything that might "interfere with production of alcohol for synthetic rubber or other war needs."

He said if the WPB found it possible to release distilleries from alcohol manufacture, it would be up to the war food administration to determine if sufficient grain can be made available to make whisky.

Nelson ranked bobby pins and cosmetics high on the list of essential civilian requirements, asserting "women war workers have to keep their hair up," but he would not pass on the relative essentiality of beverage alcohol.

"We don't say anything is non-essential," he said.

Napoleon Bonaparte originated the idea of odd and even house numbers for different sides of the street.

Sea Dogs on Treasure Island

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO — They're parking the navy in the Court of the Seven Seas and Navy fun rumble through the Phantom Arena.

That's what war has done to Treasure Island World Fair grounds of 1939 and 1940, who flocked from Portland, Me., to Portland, Ore., to the make-trade island in sparkling San Francisco bay, wouldn't recognize the place today.

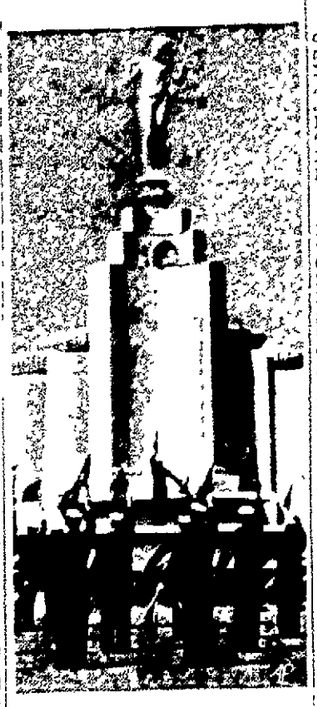
Taken over by the Navy during the early days of the war, the island, which once housed the treasures of the world, now is temporary home for the navy in blue from as many states as there are in the union.

Some of the buildings are gone. Others are remodeled for the Navy.

Appropriately enough, the foods and beverages dished up in such manufactures display the lowest and the fanciest food and drink, today in the main galley, where thousands (it's a military secret) of meals are served daily in the Navy's biggest mess hall in the world.

The base of the fair's landmark —the Tower of the Sun—is now a bandstand. The towers down.

The once gay buildings have been re-painted in battle gray but some of the artistic statuary still stands and looks down, reflectively, upon the young fighting men who have replaced the peacetime tourists on the "treasure island of the world."



YO HO HO—On World's Fair Treasure Island sailors drill for sea adventures

Here's How To Make Best Use of Fine Coal and Slack in Firing Furnace

In the early days of coal mining in this country, no effort was made to save or market the fine coal. It received the name "slack" and was sometimes considered dirt, or inferior coal, and no one was interested in using it. All equipment, even in the large industrial and central station plants of that time, was hand-fired. The situation has changed completely and all of our modern power plants are equipped with stokers or pulverized coal units and burn screenings or slack.

These modern plants could not use lump or egg coal without an additional expense of crushing it down. In spite of this, some of the prejudice against fine coal has been carried down through the years. Many people still think that it is "dirt" or inferior quality.

Mrs. O F J. of Detroit, shares this common misconception. She writes:

"We buy the highest grade coal we can find but when it is delivered some of it breaks into small pieces and there is always a lot of very small pieces or slack lying around the coal bin. I always pick out the larger pieces and now have quite an accumulation of the real small coal, but don't know what to do with it. I am afraid to use it in the furance because it might smother the fire and anyway I have been told that it is practically all 'dirt' and ash and doesn't have enough heat in it to pay for the bother of putting it in the furnace."

Coals vary considerably in their structure, according to the seam and district where they are mined. It is interesting to note that so-called "soft" coals are actually the hardest coals structurally, many of them being much harder than "hard" coal or anthracite.

In Mrs. J.'s case, while hardness or amount of breakage is no criterion of the coal, it is, of course, desirable to have as little fines in the coal as one can. There should be no occasion for dirt may if there is some breakage of the coal when placed in the bin. Obviously, if a small piece of coal breaks off a large one, it must necessarily be the same quality as the larger piece.

Mrs. J should use this slack in firing the furnace at night. After placing the fresh charge on one side or in the front, according to her particular method of alternating the firing she can use up this fine coal by putting a layer of it over the larger coal just added to the firebox. The layer can be two to four inches thick and it will help to hold the banked fire until morning. Under no circumstances should this fine coal be thrown away or considered an inferior quality than the larger pieces.

Appalachian Coals, Inc. Transportation Building, Cincinnati, O., will be glad to give advice on any heating problem confronting you. Simply address a letter to the Chief Engineer, Appalachian Coals, Inc., setting forth your trouble and it will receive a prompt reply. There is no charge for this service. Or a letter to the same address will bring free a copy of the "Firing Chart." This chart shows how to fire from 30 to 60 pounds of coal at a time without making objectionable smoke or wasting fuel.

From a Recipe Contest

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
(Central Press Food Editor)

This week's program I have chosen from the contest for the best no-point recipes and well-balanced menus for the main meal. Two of which are given here. All are printed here I think they can be of help to other housewives in planning meals which are low in point and money cost and yet full of taste appeal.

MENU

(Submitted by Mrs. Fred Nitz of Jamaica, New York)

Fresh pork tongue patties with prunes, boiled potatoes, Julienne carrots, mixed green salad, hard, crunchy rolls, baked apple

Fresh Pork Tongue Patties With Prunes

4 fresh pork tongues, 8 slices stale bread, 1 egg, salt and pepper to taste, 1 onion, grated.

Wash and clean pork tongues and simmer in salted water until tender (about 2½ hours). Remove skins, bones and other waste. Chill. Put through food grinder. Soak bread in water, squeeze dry and put through food grinder. Add egg, salt and pepper, and grated onion; also additional bread or bread crumbs if necessary. Blend well and form into patties. Brown slowly in frying pan or skillet.

Sauce

½ pound prunes, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 3 whole cloves, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 cup water, ½ cup honey.

Simmer prunes, spices, vinegar, honey and water about 15 minutes. Pour over browned patties, cover and continue to cook slowly for about 15 minutes longer.

You've never tasted a more delicious meat dish. And Mrs. Nitz adds this note to her entry, "The liquid from the tongue makes a delicious broth. The tongues are not as fatty as other parts of pork, which makes them more easily digestible. When other meats are scarce, fresh pork tongues are usually available."

MENU

(Submitted by Joan S. Gerrand, New York City)

Vegetable Soup, "Quiche Lorraine" Baked Tomato Halves, Green Salad, Crisp Rolls or French Bread, Compote of Fresh Fruit.

"Quiche Lorraine"

Pastry, 8-10 slices crisp bacon, 4 eggs, 3 cups milk, salt and pepper to taste.

Sift onto board a cup of flour mixed with ¼ teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon sugar. Sift in the shape of a cone. Into the hole in the middle put the yolk of one egg and ½ cup of butter or margarine. Work all this together gently to form a paste. A very little water may be added. Handle very lightly. Do not knead. Cover and put in the ice box—preferably over night. Roll thin, spread with slivers of ice-cold margarine. Fold up and roll thin. (Prepared pastry mix may be used instead.)

Line a straight-sided large pie plate with pastry and prick bottom with a fork. Break bacon in pieces and sprinkle over the bottom of the pie plate. Beat eggs and add milk, salt and pepper. Pour into pie shell. Bake in a slow oven about two hours, or until custard sets.

This can be varied with ¼ cup of chopped ham instead—or half bacon and half shredded Swiss cheese (if your points permit).

As you see, each of these meals is well-balanced, has color, variety in texture of foods, and unusual flavor. Neither of them costs much. Don't they inspire you to greater care in planning and greater inventiveness in cooking? We hope so.

CITY STREET HOLES BEING REPAIRED

Service Dept. Plans Can and Paper Collections.

Patching of "wheel-breaking" holes in pavements is being completed this week, John V. Rath, safety service director, announced today. The workers have been on the job, weather permitting, for some time.

He stated that some resurfacing would probably be done during the summer, but a definite schedule has not been announced. He plans to have another tin-can collection and possibly a paper drive during the spring house cleaning period.

All of the dirt and leaves, accumulated on all the streets were swept up a few weeks ago he said.

He also plans to announce special dates when he hopes residents will see to having their refuse and discarded articles resulting from individual spring housecleaning, removed from the yards. Marion residents are asked to clean up their lawn and place the dirt in containers instead of sweeping it into the gutter.

Following the spring housecleaning of individual homes, a cleaning on city-wide scale will be done when the streets are again swept.

The earliest library in China was probably kept by Lao-tse, a philosopher about 700 B. C.

Coast fog signals were almost unknown until the middle of the nineteenth century.

The first life boats were designed at the end of the 18th century.

FIRST LADY'S USE OF GASOLINE DISCUSSED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 4 — Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R-Ohio) remarked yesterday before a committee investigating black markets that "Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt's use of gas has done more to prejudice people against the gas rationing program than anything else I know."

Brown declared every member of the committee had received letters saying "if Mrs. Roosevelt can get all the gas she wants for traveling, I'm going to have what I need to transact my business."

Rep. Harris (D-Ark.) interposed that "this is an investigation of black marketing and has nothing to do with Mrs Roosevelt."

"What the people think of Mrs Roosevelt and her use of gas does not have an important effect on how well they obey the gas regulations," Brown replied.

Shad Polier, head of automotive rationing enforcement for OPA, said he would be "proud" to defend the first lady from criticism of her traveling.

"I frankly don't think the first lady needs any defense from us," Brown answered. "There's been no attack made on her here."

The name of the President's wife was brought into the hearing after a discussion between Brown and Polier as to whether the gasoline ration of Mrs. James Roosevelt, wife of Col. Roosevelt, had been revoked following her recent conviction for speeding on the west coast.

Polier said the Los Angeles OPA district office did not know whether Mrs. Roosevelt's local rationing board had revoked her coupons, but added that "she will receive exactly the same treatment as any other person."

Brown said every committee member had received letters asking "if my gas coupons were taken away for speeding, why weren't some taken away from Mrs James Roosevelt?"

State Party Chairmen See Stewart, Lausche As Likely Primary Winners

By ROBERT VINCENT
International News Service Correspondent.

COLUMBUS, O., May 4.—It looks like a battle between the mayor of Cincinnati and the mayor of Cleveland for the governor's chair in the November election.

The chairmen of the Republican and Democratic state central committees today "predicted" that the mayors of the state's two largest cities would win the gubernatorial nominations of their respective parties at next Tuesday's primary.

There was only one catch to the "prediction." Party ethics prohibit a state chairman from violating his neutrality among the candidates of his own party and picking his own party winners.

However, at the request of International News Service, the two state chairmen ventured a guess as to who would be nominated by the opposing party.

"It seems to me that Mayor (Frank J.) Lausche of Cleveland will be the Democratic nominee," said Republican State Chairman Ed D. Schorr.

"I'm just guessing, perhaps, but it looks to me like Mayor (James Garfield) Stewart of Cincinnati will get the Republican gubernatorial nomination next Tuesday," said Albert A. Horstman, Democratic party chieftain. "I think he'll walk right between the two Herberts."

Horstman's reason for predicting the nomination of Stewart by the Republicans coincided with that of most capital observers. The other two principal candidates are Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert of Columbus and Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert of Cleveland.

When the two Herberts speak from the same platform, even the chairmen of the political meetings they are addressing sometimes get them confused. Hence, most observers want to know, how can the voters distinguish between them when their names show up on the same ballot?

Schorr gave no reason for his choice of Lausche as the Democratic nominee, but it was pointed out by others that Lausche has demonstrated tremendous vote-getting power in Cleveland, the state's biggest Democratic stronghold.

Strong in Cleveland.

In view of the fact that two years ago, for example, Cuyahoga county cast 91,375 votes in the Democratic primary, or more than one-fourth of the 355,196 votes cast by Democrats in the entire state, it was felt that the man who could carry the state's most populous area most probably would be the Democratic nominee.

Lausche, however, will have to fight off strong challenges from Frazier Reams, former collector of internal revenue at Toledo, and James W. Huffman, Columbus attorney and son-in-law of former governor and U. S. Sen. A. V. "Vic" Donahey, whose indorsement still carries considerable weight in rural Ohio.

Reams is blasting Lausche at every opportunity as being the hand-picked choice of "Roosevelt-hating Cleveland newspapers," and then citing his own record as an organization Democrat. Huffman is busy making the most of his Donahey backing and campaigning strenuously in downstate Ohio.

The other three Democrats in the race—former Congressman Martin L. Sweeney of Cleveland, former State Sen. Walter Baertschi of Toledo, and Attorney Frank A. Dye of Columbus—are considered only as dark horse candidates, as is Republican Albert Edward Payne of Springfield, the fourth entry in his party's contest.

COUNTY SETS PACE FOR FARM BUREAU GROUPS

Leading State in Organization of Advisory Councils.

Marion county leads the state in the number of Farm Bureau advisory councils established since a goal was set in January by the state board, Miss Alice Smith, organization manager of the Marion County Farm Bureau, reports. The councils are set up in groups of 10 or so families which meet in homes to discuss their problems and attempt to find solutions. Members of the groups need not be Farm Bureau members. There are 24 in Marion county and of this group 15 have been organized since the state quota of 550 new groups was announced. Minutes of the meetings are sent to the state headquarters of the Farm Bureau where other suggestions are made for solving particularly knotty problems. The announcement was made at a meeting of the board of directors of the Farm Bureau held Tuesday night.

The directors also heard a report on a district meeting of the Northwest Ohio district women who discussed ways of using preventive medicine in connection with farm health rather than being forced to use curative medicine. Mrs. Frank Helmlich of Waldo was Marion county delegate to the meeting which took place recently at Findlay and included all counties in northwest Ohio.

Robert Eisele, president of the board, and Mrs. Gale Smith, secretary, were appointed to the extension advisory board, a group of persons interested in extension work of the department of agriculture who will advise A. H. Smith, county extension agent, in planning his work.

Operetta Is Given By Morral School Pupils

Students of Morral school presented an operetta last night at the school directed by Mrs. C. W. Bosley, Mrs. H. A. Rutter and Mrs. W. F. O'Brien under the supervision of Mrs. Hoover. The program opened with a song by Beatrice Alderman. Other numbers included beside choruses in the first act were a song by Marilyn Hughes, duets by Bonnie Corwin and Merle Hilborn, Bobby Buckley and Eugene Knickel, a saxophone solo by Betty Mercer and trumpet duet by Julia Campbell and Dorothy Jean Herbert.

Numbers included in the second act were solos by Dortha Jean Porter and Jimmie Harris, a clarinet trio by Jane Bishop, Gerry Gibb, and Mildred Greene, an accordion solo by Ray Weston, xylophone duets by Roy Loudenslager and Leona Leathem.

The orchestra, choruses and ensembles presented numbers throughout the production.

Individual parts in the operetta were taken by Jeanne Parker and Marilyn Hughes. Students took parts of flowers, honey bees and overall boys, sunbonnet babes and butterflies, brownies and fairies.

Army Courts Try To Be Fair

By International News Service

SALT LAKE CITY — He's in the Army now, Mom and Dad so how are his rights protected, now that he is subject to military law? How just is Army justice?

Though a million or more MP-harassed G.I. voices may be raised in a Bronx cheer at the statement, Maj. Gen. David McCoach, Jr., commanding general of the Ninth Service Command, avers that the foremost aim of military justice is "to keep the guardhouses empty."

Time of Trials Reduced

The stories of swift severity of military courts martial and the usual misinformation of the general public have combined to give the khaki-clad goddess of Justice an aura of unapproachable austerity, which Gen. McCoach would like to lessen. Some of his efforts to accomplish this purpose were disclosed today at the Ninth Service Command headquarters near Fort Douglas, near Salt Lake City.

Gen. McCoach announced that in 10 months the time consumed in conducting the average court martial (that is from the arrest of the soldier until final rendition of a verdict and sentence) has been decreased by six-sevenths in his command. The average time was 139.1 days when figures were compiled in February, 1943. Now it is only 18.67 days.

All Delay Eliminated

This record became even more remarkable in comparison with the trial time in ordinary civilian criminal court procedure.

"The objective in reducing the period from confinement to trial has been to eliminate the injustice of unreasonable delays in bringing the accused men to trial, and to conserve manpower by limiting a soldier's absence from training and duty to the shortest possible time," Gen. McCoach said.

"Much of the previous delay was occasioned by the time required to transmit reports of investigations and records of investigations and records of trial by mail from installations throughout the eight large Western states comprising the Ninth Service Command — the largest service command in the nation—to the headquarters at Fort Douglas.

Report Prisoners Weekly

"To lessen this delay commanding officers at Fort Lewis, Wash., Fort Ord, Camp Santa Anita, Camp Roberts and Camp Haan, all in California, and Fort Huachuca, Ariz., were empowered to appoint general courts-martial and to finally pass on cases at their own and nearby installations. In addition, a branch of the Judge Advocate office was established at the Forward Echelon, at Presidio of San Francisco, to service numerous installations in Northern California."

Gen. McCoach revealed that reports now are required weekly from every camp on the number of prisoners held in guardhouses and the reasons for confinement.

Men's Rights Paramount

Workings of the military justice system were described by Gen. McCoach as considering the protection of the rights of each individual prisoner to be of paramount importance.

"To assure uniformity of administration of justice throughout the command, supervision of the decentralized posts is maintained at Fort Douglas headquarters by Service Command Judge Advocate, Col. Thomas J. White, who is directly responsible to me," Gen. McCoach said.

Trials throughout the command, as everywhere else in the Army are conducted in strict conformity with the Articles of War, to which all soldiers are subject. The Articles of War frequently are referred to as "the soldier's Bill of Rights."

Charges against a suspect are thoroughly and impartially investigated and the case is referred for trial to a court-martial only if the investigation develops competent evidence of probable guilt.

Three Types of Trial

There are three types of courts-martial: general, special and summary. In event of conviction, the complete trial record is reviewed by Col. White to insure that the proceedings are regular and the evidence is legally sufficient. Final review and action are taken by Gen. McCoach personally. If a reversible error is found, the case is disapproved and a rehearing is ordered or the soldier is restored to duty.

Conviction by court-martial usually carried a "reasonably severe sentence and a dishonorable discharge," Gen. McCoach said. He added:

"But Army justice does not stop with final approval of the sentence. If the prisoner's offense and background indicate he may be reclaimed for future useful service, the dishonorable discharge is suspended and he is sent to the rehabilitation center at Turlock, Cal., rather than the disciplinary barracks at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., to serve his sentence.

Given Chance to Reform

"At Turlock he is placed in a training battalion and afforded every opportunity and encouragement to prove himself a good soldier. After about six months, each prisoner is considered for clemency, and if his record has been satisfactory, the remainder of his sentence is suspended and he is restored to duty.

"This rehabilitation program has proved extremely successful. Through it many soldiers have been given a second chance and have proved themselves to be good soldiers."

THREE SAILORS MISSING

Cussing Cook Banned

By The Associated Press

AN ADVANCED NEW GUINEA BASE, May 4—Out here where the food is strictly GI morning, noon and night the cooks were given a measure of protection by an official order posted today.

It read:

"Hereafter no member of this mess personnel shall curse the cook, either on or off duty. Cooks are human, too, and are doing their best."

Only yesterday this order was posted on the bulletin board:

"Hereafter no member of this mess personnel shall in a loud and uncouth manner or otherwise refer to the fruit juice as battery acid."

MARION HANDED ANOTHER DEFEAT BY LIMA OUTFIT, 11 TO 4

Zernia, Bellamy Blast Home Runs To Lead Hitters.

By CHARLES ELLIOTT

A DEMORALIZING combination of playing "jitters" and a deceptive, accomplished opposing pitcher spelled Defeat No. 2 on the 1944 ledger of Marion's Ohio State leaguers as the locals were again whipped by the Lima Red Birds, 11 to 4, at Lincoln park last night.

Cliff "Runt" Marr's Birds synchronized with even more efficiency than for Tuesday night's season-opening 8 to 5 victory over Marion as they outclassed the practice-needing baseballers of Grover Hartley. The locals allowed three runs to seep through on costly errors in the seventh and last inning but the Lima triumph was well-earned, on the basis of the Marrmen's timely hitting and the top-quality hurling of Moundsman Dick Steinhaur, tall right hander.

Steinhaur not only set the locals down with seven hits but took temporary first place in the Ohio State loop strike-out lists as he whiffed ten Marionites last night. All ten strike outs came in the first five innings. He executed the neat trick of striking out the side in the Marion half of the first, third and fifth stanzas.

Lima collected ten hits off Marion Pitchers Bob Thackeray, who started, and Bud Brooks. Thackeray was charged with the loss after he retired from the game in the last of the fifth in favor of a pinch hitter. He allowed the Lima team only four of their 11 runs, the other seven coming when Brooks was tolling on the hill in the last two rounds.

Last night's second game in a four-contest early-season series between the Red Birds and Marion corresponded to the campaign-launcher of Tuesday night in that extra-base hits were a common commodity. Two home runs were racked up last night, Clean-Up Man Harvey Zernia of Lima poling one over the right field fence in the first of the third inning with no one on board and Catcher Joe Bellamy of the locals poling a drive over the left field fence in the bottom half of the same inning, with the sacks unoccupied. Outside of Bellamy's homer, no other extra base knocks were posted by Marion, but Lima got to Thackeray and Brooks for three doubles and a triple.

Same Lineup.

Manager Marr of Lima stuck to almost the same lineup for last night's game that started the Tuesday encounter. Only exception was the replacing of Ken Watson, who pitched Tuesday's game, with Steinhaur. Manager Grover Hartley of Marion, however, did some more experimenting as he made five changes in his lineup. Palatic replaced Bob McDonald at shortstop, Milo "Swede" Fahse went to second base, Bellamy donned the catcher's outfit, Warren Blunt took Paul Michas' left field job and Thackeray started on the mound, in place of Edwards.

Last night's game, which was witnessed by approximately 400, as compared to 1,500 for the opener, was called at the end of the seventh because the Lima team had to catch an 8 o'clock train back to Lima. The game started shortly after 6 o'clock, when it was agreed by both managers that action would cease at shortly before 8 o'clock, regardless of the inning.

Lima's first big scoring spree came in the first half of the second, when three runs were marked up on four hits. After Barney flied out, Shortstop Smith was safe when Third Baseman Bob Boddy of Marion overthrew first base. Smith went to second on the overthrow. Catcher Jim Giorvos (pronounced Jarvis) cracked a double, scoring Smith. Pitcher Steinhaur followed suit with a two-bagger and Giorvos trotted in. Schmeldeke singled in Steinhaur. Zernia's homer, a 350-foot drive clearing the eight-foot fence in right field, came in the third inning. Bellamy's circuit drive came in the same stanza. It was a skyscraping clout that missed being foul by only three feet.

Sixth Inning.

In the sixth inning the Birds broke loose for three counters. Steinhaur opened with a walk and went to second when Schmeldeke was hit by Pitcher Bud Brooks. Dick Fuller laid down a sacrifice bunt, advancing Steinhaur to third and Schmeldeke to second. Earl Reside, who blasted a homer Tuesday night, banged out a triple that cleared the bases. Zernia walked and Third Baseman Tom Ivey drove in Reside with a single.

Both teams finished strong, Lima getting four runs in the last inning and Marion, three. Three of Lima's runs, however, were unearned, being gifts in the form of three Marion errors in succession. Smith opened the inning with a double and went to third on a fielder's choice, Steinhaur grounded out and Schmeldeke drove in Smith with a one-bagger. Then came the circus parade of miscues. First player to err was Bob Boddy, then came left fielder Blunt, who let an outfield hit trickle through his legs. Shortstop Palatic committed the final error, Ivey ended the orgy by flying out after the damage had been done.

Marion's three-run last inning outburst was slightly more orthodox, all runs being earned. Bellamy started with a sharp single and Bob McDonald, pinch hitting for Brooks, did the same. Bellamy going to third. Whidden, another pinchhitter scored Bellamy from third on another single. Blunt walked. False flied out to centerfield, scoring McDonald from third. Whidden raced to third on a poor throw home. Hensby flied to center and Whidden raced to third on a poor throw home. Hensby flied to center and Whidden came in. The game ended with Gregory grounding out, third baseman Ivey to First Sacker Barney.

8:30 STARTING TIME FOR THIRD GAME SET FOR LIMA TONIGHT

Bailey for Marion, Collingsworth for Lima, Probable Starting Hurlers.

Marion's Ohio State leaguers will attempt to break into the victory column when they square off for the third game in a four-game series with the Lima Red Birds at Lima's Holloran Field tonight. The game, which will be played under the lights, is scheduled to start at 8:30.

Manager Cliff Marr of Lima and he would probably start Herschel Collingsworth of Alger, O., on the mound for the tonight's game. Grover Bartley, Marion manager, has named Ed Bailey, 21-year-old right hander from Mt. Pleasant, Pa., to face the Birds. Bailey was released to the Marion team by the Hornell club of the Class D Pony league. Collingsworth is also a right hander. Hartley stated he might make one or two other changes in the Marion lineup for tonight's contest with Bill Whidden being a probable starter at shortstop.

Marion and Lima close their current series tomorrow night with another game under the Holloran Field lamps. The locals then travel to Zanesville for a three-game series with the Zanesville Dodgers. The Hartleymen return to Lincoln park next Tuesday and are slated for an eight-day home stand. Tuesday, they inaugurate a three-tilt series with the Middletown Red Sox.

Umpires for tonight's game will be Jack Norris and John Azallo. A capacity crowd of 2,800 is expected. The Lima grandstand holds approximately 1,800 and the bleachers along the two foul lines seat 1,000.

* * *

Dick Steinhauer, winning pitcher in last night's Lima-Marion game, is on option to the Lima team from the Columbus Red Birds. His home is in Fresno, Calif. . . . Joe Bellamy's third inning home run last night was recorded on a curve ball thrown by Pitcher Steinhaur. The big Red Bird hurler had puzzled Bellamy with two fast balls but for some reason switched to a hook for the third offering which he pickeled out of the park . . . Both starting pitchers last night were tall boys, Thackeray of Marion standing 6 feet 6 and Steinhauer around the six foot 1 mark.

OSL TEAMS SPLIT 3 WAYS IN STANDINGS

There were three different classes of standings, each with two patrons, in today's Ohio State league standings following second round games yesterday. Lima and Springfield still held top spot, Zanesville and Newark were in the second category with one game won and one lost, and Marion and Middletown were in the cellar, with two defeats.

Hitting laurels of the day went to Springfield with 13, and Newark and Middletown were credited with a day of errorless play. Line scores of games not involving Marion follow:

Springfield	002 000 202	6	13 1
Middletown	002 000 000	2	6 0

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Mel Harder, Indians—Moved to within one game of 200-win mark in major leagues by seven-hit job against Chicago.

Hank Borowy, Yankees—Stretched holdover victory streak to 10 with third straight 1944 triumph at expense of Philadelphia.

Jack Kramer, Browns—Became first major league hurler to win four games this season although he had to get help when Detroit rallied in the ninth.

Eddie Miller, Reds—Collected home run and two singles in 17-hit Cincinnati attack against Chicago.

Bill Lee, Phillies—Tossed Giants out of second place with five-hitter; lost shutout when Mel Ott homered with two out in the ninth.

BOUDREAU REJOINS INDIANS LINEUP AFTER REJECTION

Arthritic Condition in Fractured Ankle Causes Army Turn-Down.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 4 — Given back to the Indians by the Army, Manager Lou Boudreau returns to the lineup today as the Tribesmen clash with the Chicago White Sox in the finale of a four-game series.

The 26-year-old Cleveland pilot was turned down at the Chicago preinduction center yesterday because of an arthritic condition in his right ankle, which he fractured in 1934 while playing with a Harvey, Ill., sandlot team and refractured in a spring exhibition game with Cleveland in 1940.

Jimmy Grant, who moved into the revamped infield in Boudreau's absence, continued to plague his former teammates yesterday as the Indians downed the Pale Hose 9 to 4.

The little infielder rapped a two-run double that tide the score in the sixth. It was his only hit of the day but he walked twice and was hit by a pitched ball once. His two-bagger yesterday was his third of that denomination, his fifth hit and his fourth extra-base blow in the three games of the series with the Sox.

The victory was Mel Harder's 199th over a span of 17 major league seasons, all with the Indians. The 34-year-old right hander is the only Cleveland twirler to pitch a complete game since the season started. He held the Sox to seven hits in turning in his second nine-inning chore of the campaign.

The Tribe pounded Lee (Buck) Ross and Floyd Speer for 14 hits, including Pat Seerey's second home run of the season, three doubles by Roy Cullenbine and a pair of two baggers by Jeff Heath.

The clubs went into the seventh deadlocked at 2-all but the Redskins clinched the game in that frame with a five-run splurge after two batters had been retired.

Pitching Puts Yanks, Phillies Back Into Baseball Picture

By The Associated Press

Gaudy pitching stunts by the Yankees and Phillies today helped the orphaned Chicago Cubs escape attention in their continued tunneling under the National league cellar with 10 straight defeats.

While the world champs have allowed the enemy only five runs in winning their last four games and the Bluejays have yielded only six scores in the same stretch, the St. Louis leaders have had reason to take a look back over their shoulders.

Luke Sewell's Browns can't afford to let up, for the New Yorkers are ready to take control in the American and the Phils, although tied for second with Cincinnati, are only a game and a half back of the Cards.

While the Cub owners checked the list of managerial possibilities, the Bruins failed to be inspired by a tongue lashing from Acting Manager Roy Johnson and stumbled before Cincinnati, 10-4. Tom De La Cruz of the Reds bagged his second big league victory with the help of 17 hits.

Lee Misses Shutout

Big Bill Lee was the latest Phil to stand up and shine. He missed a shutout after having two out in the ninth when Mel Ott homered but he had little trouble trimming the Giants, 7-1. He gave 5 hits.

Lloyd Waner dropped down a perfect squeeze play bunt in a ninth-inning rally that gave Brooklyn a 4-3 edge over Boston. Augie Galan's double with the bases loaded had tied it up to set the stage for the strategy.

Whitey Kurowski went on a one-run rampage against Pittsburgh and bopped Rip Sewell for two home runs in St. Louis' 5-1 triumph. The "blooper ball" expert gave only six blows but the two he gave Kurowski cost him four runs and the ball game.

Hank Borowy stretched his personal holdover streak to 10 victories in a row by parceling out the Athletics' singles in a 3-1 Yankee decision over Luke Hamlin. With pitching by Borowy and Ernie Bonham showing the way the Yanks now have won the last four games but scored a total of only 12 runs.

Cronin Fills Empty Shoes

Boston had its fourth different first baseman of the year yesterday and he may get the job. Manager Joe Cronin took over and sold himself a bill of goods on driving in three runs in the Red Sox 11-10 walloping of Washington. A homer and two singles were included in Cronin's bag.

Cleveland's Mel Harder will be gunning for his 200th major league win next time out. The veteran made it 199 yesterday with a 9-4 edge over Chicago. Roy Cullenbine made it easier with three doubles and a single.

Jack Kramer became the first big leaguer to win four games but had to be told about it in the clubhouse. At Hollingsworth and George Caster each retired one man in stemming a ninth inning Detroit rally for St. Louis' 7-4 victory.

JACKIE NICHOLS

WRESTLING CARD TONITE

A main event and two 45 minute matches at the Marion Armory tonight look like the best card Marion fans will have seen in many a moon. Angelo Martinelli and the Black Panther will provide the two hour main event and it should be one of the best clean, fast matches.

"Tiger" Jack Moore will meet Leo Jensen in one of the 45 minute bouts, while Jackie Nichols will wrestle the rough and tough Red Ryan in the other. All matches will be the best two out of three falls with the first match getting under way at 8:30. Call the Armory after six o'clock for reservations.—Adv.

Hardin Co. Native Dies at Magnetic Springs

Special to The Star

KENTON, May 4—James E. Kinnear, 75, retired farmer of Magnetic Springs, died at his home at 2:20 p. m. yesterday. He was born March 24, 1869 in Hardin county. Oct. 24, 1895 he married Ada J. Fultz who survives. A resident of Kenton and Hardin county until 1921, he moved to Union county and he resided at Magnetic Springs four years. Surviving besides the widow are a son, James Dean Kinnear of Magnetic Springs, six grandchildren, six great grandchildren and two step-granddaughters. Funeral services will be conducted Friday at 2 p. m. at the Schindewolf funeral home in Kenton by Rev. Martin of Magnetic Springs, pastor of the Methodist church there. Burial will be in Grove cemetery at Kenton. Friends may call at the home.

Illinois Governor Says Whipping Post Not a Bad Idea

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 4—Acting Gov. Hugh B. Cross of Illinois declared yesterday that in some "special cases" he favored "public humiliation" as a more practical means of crime prevention and urged consideration of a "speedy return to the use of the whipping post as the most effective treatment."

"I may be a little old fashioned but I still believe that the familiar injunction to 'spare the rod and spoil the child' is sound and logical treatment in some cases, not only as applied to children, but also to grownups," Cross said in an address prepared for the central states probation and parole conference.

Cross asserted that "while we emphasize the importance of humane treatment for those who especially appear to merit such treatment, yet I believe we should not entirely overlook some of the age-old methods that also have proven their effectiveness in handling certain types of evil-doers."

He added "It has been amply demonstrated that swaggering bullies who beat up their wives, and confidence men who are the strutting peacocks of the underworld, would much prefer to serve a prison sentence rather than suffer the extreme humiliation of being publicly flogged.

BIRDS MISS CHANCE TO TAKE AA LEAD

By The Associated Press

Columbus' junior world champion Redbirds missed a chance to move into first place in the American association baseball race last night when they dropped a 13-inning thriller to Toledo's Mudhens, 5 to 4.

Meanwhile, in the loop's only other games, the league-leading Brewers and Kansas City divided a double header. The Blues rallied for four runs in the seventh inning to take an abbreviated first encounter, 6 to 5, while the Brewers bunched their hits behind Earl Caldwell to take the second game, 5 to 2.

Relief Pitcher Harry Kimberlin choked a Columbus rally in the 13th, retiring Jim Mallory after Glenn Crawford tripled with two out.

Elmer Singleton's two-hit relief job gave Kansas City inspiration for its first game victory over Milwaukee. Earl Caldwell, Milwaukee pitcher, scattered 10 Blue hits in the nightcap as the Brewers took advantage of the generosity of Vince De Biasi and Ray Uniak.

The Louisville-Indianapolis and Minneapolis-St. Paul games were postponed because of rain.

REDS NEED STRONG WIND TO HIT BEST

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 4 — Cincinnati's Reds, who can hit if there's a brisk gale, meet the struggling Chicago Cubs again today in a new threat to overtake the National league leading St. Louis Cardinals.

Either Ed Heusser or Clyde Shoun for the Reds and Hank Wyse, who blanked Cincinnati in the season opener, are the pitchers.

Yesterday's high wind helped the Reds to 17 hits and a 10-4 victory over the Cubs, who started Paul Derringer, the Reds' ace pitcher in their 1939 and 1940 pennant drives. Tomas De La Cruz, Cuban rookie from Syracuse, was the winning pitcher.

Woody Williams led the hitting with four singles in five tries, and Eddie Miller contributed a two-run homer in the fourth, when Derringer was replaced by veteran Clyde Passeau. De La Cruz knocked in two runs in the fifth with a double to right center.

The Cubs did all their scoring in the first four innings, aided by Don Johnsen's home run in the second. They opened with a pair in the first inning on two singles and a double by Eddie Sauer, made it three in the second on Johnsen's homer, and scored the final in the fourth.

Boys in Thefts To Go in Industrial School

Two boys, 11 and 13, are being held at the county detention home awaiting their transfer to the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster after admitting to Juvenile judge Oscar Gast the theft of a billfold, ration books and other articles from a car, when they were brought into juvenile court Tuesday. The 13-year-old boy is a parolee from the industrial school. The boys were picked up by police several days ago.

NOTICE

The unknown widow, the unknown heirs, the unknown devisees of Benjamin F. Mouser, deceased, will take notice that on the 17th day of March, 1944, J. Aultman Raub and T. Losey filed their petition in the Common Pleas Court of Marion County, Ohio, in case 27750, against the above named parties and others, praying for reformation of a certain deed dated October 27, 1902, recorded in Volume 102 at page 262 of the Deed records of Marion County, Ohio, and for quieting title to the following described real estate:

Situated in City of Marion, County of Marion and State of Ohio:

Being part of section 22 fronting on the west line of Kensington Place as extended. Beginning at a point in the west line of Kensington Place at the southeast corner of land heretofore deeded by Henry True and wife to B. Waddell Jr. as recorded Vol. 73 Page 255 Recorders Office of said County; thence with the south line of land deeded to said Waddell 156 feet westward to the east line of an alley; thence with east line of alley southward 100 feet; thence eastward 156 feet to the west line of Kensington Place; thence with west line of Kensington Place 100 feet to the place of beginning.

Said real estate also being known as Lots 27 and 28 of original survey 102, Volume 2, page 351, Survey Records of Marion County, Ohio.

Said parties are required to answer on or before the 24th day of June, 1944.

PROFIT TAKING CHECKS RISE

Prices, Moderately Firm at Opening, Weaken as Trading Dwindles.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 4—The recent recovery of stocks inspired enough profit taking in today's market to stall the progressive swing.

Prices, fairly firm at a moderately active opening, soon began to waver and, with dealings dwindling, fractional declines predominated near the fourth hour.

Backward were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Goodrich, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Standard Oil (NJ), Anaconda, American Telephone and General Electric. Resistant issues were Park & Tilford, up about 2 points at a 1944 peak on persistent hopes of a whisky dividend; Westinghouse, Goodyear and J. C. Penney.

POLITICS TAKES STRANGE TWIST

Intra-Party Strife Adds Zest to Current Campaign for Governor.

(More about state campaign on page 18)

By The Associated Press

Verily, verily, primary election campaigns must produce some distressing moments for the party faithful.

During most of the year they are indoctrinated with claims that the ideals and leaders of their particular party are infallible.

Then comes the intra-party warfare of primary time and the partisans encounter developments such as these, which enlivened the Ohio scene today as four Republicans and six Democrats competed for the gubernatorial nominations:

A Republican pointed to a Democratic candidate as casting a proper example for a Republican candidate, and

A spokesman for a Democratic candidate declared his man was the only real Democrat in the primary.

Attacks Stewart

Murray Seasongood of Cincinnati asserted that Mayor James C. Stewart of this city was slighting his duties while traveling about the state in quest of the Republican nomination for governor.

Seasongood, a supporter of a Stewart rival—Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert—added that the Cincinnati mayor was campaigning on the taxpayers' time. Then he contrasted this with an announcement by Mayor Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland that he would take no salary from his city while stumping for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Seasongood also turned his fire on Ed D. Schorr, Republican state chairman, with a statement that Schorr controlled Ohio's Republican party and candidate Stewart.

The label of only genuine Democrat was applied to Frazier Reams of Toledo by Louis W. Adams of Columbus, chairman of the Reams campaign committee.

Elsewhere, the candidates generally confined themselves to promises of improvements in the state government.

To Meet Fisher

However, Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, Republican, arranged to meet tomorrow with Liquor Director Don A. Fisher for a discussion of Herbert's accusations that liquor agents have been circulating campaign material of another candidate, yet to be identified.

The lieutenant governor listed Trumbull and Erie as two counties in which he said the state agents were campaigning for one of his rivals.

Mayor Stewart, at Warren, asserted "private enterprise must be restored to its former status."

He told a group of Republican women that if elected, "I shall see to it that more women occupy public office."

Lausche told audiences the state government spent $354,395,737 in 1942—"the greatest amount of money ever expended in any one-year period in the history of the state. And for what?"

James W. Huffman of Columbus, a Democrat, informed a Newark audience he favored creation of a state department of conservation to include all state agencies concerned with conserving Ohio's resources.

RYE PRICES REACH THREE-MONTH HIGH

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 4—Paced by an advance of more than a cent in May rye, which moved to a new high for the past three months, grains exhibited a firm tone on the board of trade today. Part of the buying of May rye represented short-covering and the contract was strengthened by a scarcity of offerings.

Deferred rye contracts, while higher, were not able to advance as much as the nearby month. Gains in other pits were confined to small fractions. While trading in all rye deliveries was active, not much interest was shown in other cereals. There was moderate buying of wheat from a commission house with milling connections.

Children Cause Second Fire in Three Days

Children playing with matches today caused the second garage fire within three days. A garage at the home of Herman Sharrock of 275 Leader street was set fire today at 11:07 a. m. Firemen from East Mark Street station and quad unit from Central answered the call. Damage was estimated at about $150.

Undersea Homesickness

By The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS — Seaman James T. McMillon of Nashville, Tenn., admits his thoughts were "far from dramatic" when death threatened him beneath the surface of the Indian Ocean.

A member of a Navy gun crew aboard a merchant vessel which was torpedoed and sunk, McMillon was caught in the down-pull of water as the ship went under. He had a lot of time to think before the suction released him, but, he says, "instead of reviewing my life and all my wrong-doings, I just thought of one thing, over and over. I kept thinking: 'Gee, I wish I'd stayed home today.'"

Most of the world's supply of asbestos, now an important ingredient in the making of fireproof building materials, comes from Canada, Russia, Southern Rhodesia and the Union of South Africa. The United States obtains large imports from those places to supplement its own production from mines in Vermont, Arizona and other states.

Although it has few natural harbors, Argentina has an Atlantic coastline of 1,610 miles.

MISSING PORTSMOUTH BOY, 3, FOUND SAFE

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, O., May 4—Three-year-old Ronald Arthur Boggs was safe at home today after being lost in a heavily wooded section north of here for 33 hours.

The lad was found at 7 p. m. yesterday suffering only from hunger. He had been missing since 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Charles Hump, 60, Bob Bentley, 13, and Wayne Hill, 16, discovered the boy near a footpath running along the crest of a hill in the woods three miles from his home.

Hill's rabbit dog was credited with finding the boy. The dog started to bark, and when the group came up to him they found he was barking at "Brownie," the terrier that has accompanied the Boggs boy.

Both boy and dog were taken to the Boggs home, where the child was examined by Dr. Carl G. Braulin. Ronald had not suffered from the night in the open, the physician said. The boy told his mother only that he was "hungry and sleepy."

The search for Ronald began at dusk Tuesday when his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Boggs, notified authorities he was missing.

At one time an estimated 1,000 searchers—including peace officers, Boy Scouts, civil air patrolmen and employes of the Williams Manufacturing Co., where Ronald's father works—took part in the hunt for the child. Almost four square miles of territory along the Ohio river were searched.

Split Personalities on Half-Shell

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW ORLEANS—The Stanford-Binet test for intelligence has been adapted at Tulane university to detect schizophrenia, or split personality. In the early stages this mental trouble is sometimes difficult to identify. It is one of the common types of mental difficulty which physicians try to keep out of the military forces.

Miss Marion Font, Tulane psychologist, finds a score of questions in the I. Q. test which tend to reveal early split personality. Persons with incipient trouble of this sort find it difficult to count backward, tend to give vague answers, show preoccupation, apathy and inattentiveness.

The schizophrenic finds it difficult to pair similar objects and to interpret proverbs.

"For instance," Miss Font says, "if you ask him what 'The burnt child dreads the fire' means, he is likely to reply that it means the child who has been burned won't go near the fire. He cannot seem to grasp the general meaning of the proverb or its moral."

The persons constantly return to questions previously answered. Usually schizophrenics have a high vocabulary rating and a high score on definition of words, but fail in easy word tests.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

I KNEW what Katie was doing, and I tensed myself for her return. She was going to come back downstairs as noiselessly as she had gone up them noisily, steal back to the door, and let the intruders in as Hugh had outlined.

So silently did she move that I was startled to hear her voice in impudent speech as she unbarred the door.

"Me, I tink my missis go clean crazy," she said. "She say you coom in, and she coom down in minit. She oop by herd."

She threw open the door, and from my niche I saw one of the two stocky men who came through it, put out his hand, seize Katie's arm, give it a vicious twist, and then push her so violently that she staggered. But Katie, who usually screeches at everything, did not utter a sound.

I heard the second man growl in low tones: "Lay off that stuff until you have to."

Then he raised his voice: "Look here, you little tramp! We can't see in here! Turn on the light!"

Katie moved toward the switch, making plenty of noise this time. Then she said "Okay!" and the brilliant light flooded the hall.

For the first flashing instant the men did not see Jim and me, and we were able to train our weapons on them. Then I spoke with a militant emphasis that surprised me, for I was conscious of a distinct quaking inside my ribs.

"A shotgun and two revolvers are trained on you," I said. "Drop your guns to the floor, this instant!"

Surprise

The look of surprise in their eyes were ludicrous, but I noticed that their respect and attention were all given to Jim and his shotgun. I did not mind this in the least, but lest they might be thinking that they had only one adversary, I spoke again.

"Don't make a mistake," I said sharply. "I also am a very good shot. I would advise you to drop those guns."

The weapons clattered on the floor, and their eyes were like those of wary wild beasts.

"Put up your hands, high above your heads," I said, and when they had obeyed, I spoke to Katie without taking my eyes from them.

"Pick up those guns, Katie. Take them in one of the other rooms and hide them. Then come back here."

She obeyed me, holding both revolvers in gingerly fashion as far in front of her as her arms could manage. When she returned, after a minute which seemed to spin its length into an hour, I gave another command to the men, following the instructions Hugh had given me.

"Kneel down," I said, "still holding your hands above your heads."

They obeyed me, and I saw the lips of one of them part, evidently with the impulse to yell.

"If either of you utters a sound, we shall shoot," I said quickly, and the man's lips clamped shut again.

"That is better," I told him. "If you can keep quiet, we shall not have to gag you. Now, lie down, your faces to the floor, and put your hands cross-wise on your backs."

Not until they had obeyed this last command did I dare to draw a full breath. I had been too choked before for anything but smothered gasps between orders.

I let the two men lie prone for a minute before I spoke, and when I did I felt as if I had "returned to normalcy," and could speak and breathe again without the feeling of an immense vacuum inside me.

"Keep that shotgun trained on them, Jim," I said. "Katie, pick up those pieces of rope and come over here."

Jim needed no order, and Katie hastened to obey hers.

"Now," I said, "tie their ankles first, but not too tightly. I want them to be able to take shuffling but very short steps. I'll show you how tightly to draw the ropes when you get the first one around these ankles."

I knelt beside the first man as Katie slipped the piece of rope beneath his ankles, and laying my little silencer pistol on the floor, indicating where she was to tie the knots. I repeated the performance with the other man's ankles, and the wrists of both men. Then I touched with my shoe the arm of the man whose voice had been so guttural, and summoned Jim to come to my side.

"Get up," I commanded, and Jim, propping his gun against the wall, leaned down and lifted the man from the ground. Then, also at my signal, he propelled him to the door which he set ajar, leaving the man behind it.

"Now," I said keeping out of sight of the door, "don't make any mistake. This revolver is trained on you. You are to call: 'Come in, quick!'—not a word more or less and you are to call it in your usual voice, and one I heard when you first came in. Now, don't answer me. Just call."

YOUR HEALTH

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Meat

Some of the good ladies in the service canteens are worried because the soldiers prefer "meat and potatoes and gravy and pie." They fear this diet is unscientific. They have been taught by the "green grass" school of pseudo-scientific dietetics that they should push carrots and spinach. Let us calm down and examine scientifically the claims of meat as an article of diet. (I examined potatoes before.)

The nutritional value of a food is determined by whether, first, it furnishes growth and repairs—substances to build tissues and replace body waste, second, whether it furnishes energy—calories which are like coal to your furnace or gasoline to your engine; and, third, whether it furnishes catalysts, the vitamins which control and regulate absorption and utilization of foods.

Meat is the richest substance for protein of any natural food. It contains weight for weight nearly four times as much protein as milk, twice as much as eggs or bread, and eight times as much as most vegetables. Not only that, but all the "vital" proteins are present in meat. The vital proteins are those that are made up of the amino acids that are necessary to growth and maintenance of weight and strength.

There are ten of these: lysine, tryptophane, phenylaniline, leucine, isoleucine, threonine, methionine, and valine, are necessary for maintenance and arginine is necessary for growth. The tenth, histidine, is necessary for health, but its exact function is still in doubt. We know these are facts because the amino-acids can be separated and fed to animals one at a time. Young animals will maintain weight on nine of them, but will not grow to maximum until arginine has been added to the diet.

Hazards of protein malnutrition besides loss of weight and growth are lowered resistance and failure of wounds to heal.

I have no doubt that some day pills of amino acids will be exploited just as the vitamins are now.

Meat, eggs and milk are the only common food substances in which all these vital proteins occur and in a condition to be absorbed easily by the human body. You can get them in vegetables, so the pure vegetarian is safe, although it takes a combination of beans, peas, corn, wheat, nuts and a good deal of trouble to get them all in a vegetable diet. If you add milk, cheese and eggs, (the socalled "V.E.M." diet—vegetables, eggs and milk—advocated by the lacto-vegetarian sect) you, of course, are more likely to get the vital proteins than by sticking to strict vegetarianism. But meat, milk and eggs are the only common articles of diet from which you can get all of them in concentrated and digestible form.

As to minerals, meat leads all foods in the amount of iron and phosphorus. Many foods have more calcium than meat—milk, cheese, cauliflower, carrots, beans, celery, fruit, molasses. Oysters have the highest, fish the next highest content of calcium of all the meats.

The caloric value of meat, ounce for ounce, is higher than nearly any of the other common foods—for instance, four ounces of pork contain 302 calories, of beef 369 calories, of liver 177 calories, of beans 460 calories, of milk 75 calories, of fresh vegetables 26 calories, of bread 200 calories. Concentrated food, like sugar, is high—500 calories for four ounces. The fat content raises the calorie value of any meat.

The vitamin content of meat is very high—it contains A, B, C and some D.

The digestibility of meat is one of its main advantages. Whereas the proteins of vegetables and nuts are to a considerable extent lost through lack of absorption meat is nearly completely absorbed.
